SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Two 6,500-ton ammunition ships being loaded at the U.S. naval depot at Port Chicago in Upper San Francisco Bay exploded last night, erupting into flames visible for 100 miles and causing "heavy casualties" and extensive damage, 12th Naval District Headquarters announced today.

"Casualties will be heavy but not as severe as early unofficial reports indicated," the navy said. Early estimates had ranged as high as 650 dead and injured. Reports on the casualties were fragmentary, but it appeared that approximately 300 persons were killed and missing and at least that many injured. The U.S. navy announced that 250 enlisted men and nine officers were missing and presumed dead. Four coast guardsmen were reported missing and four civilians killed. A crew member said 70 men were aboard one of the ships.

Coldwell Says C.C.F. Regarded As Bright Spot

MEDICINE HAT, July 18.—(CP)—Opening the campaign in the Aug. 8 Alberta general election M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the C.C.F., said at a meeting last night: "Progressive movements everywhere regard the C.C.F. as the brightest spot in the democratic field in North America."

"Almost every day messages of encouragement reach me from the great labor and socialist movements of Great Britain, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and the underground movements of de Gaulle and other parts of what was once democratic Europe," he said.

Elmer E. Roper, provincial leader of the C.C.F., was also on the platform.

REITERATES CHARGE
Mr. Roper reiterated his charge made a few nights ago of the obvious piece of "quibbling deception" of Premier Manning in saying that the present government was not giving away any of the resources, but only leasing them with the province retaining the title.

"It is all right retaining a lease on a house and renting it, for when the tenant moves out you still have the house, but how does this work with oil leases for instance. When the leases are given up which will be when the oil is all gone, the province is left with nothing."

ALLIES THREATEN
Two Italian ports.

ROME, July 18.—Allied forces swept up both sides of the Italian peninsula today for gains threatening the German hold on the important ports of Livorno, on the west coast and Ancona on the east.

Polish troops of the Eighth Army smashed through German defence lines guarding Ancona and were officially reported closing in on the port.

On the western side of the Italian boot, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's hard-driving Fifth Army moved up to the Arno river in a move foretelling a probable dash down the Arno valley to the sea, nipping off Livorno. An American spearhead reached the Arno at Pontedera.

Edmonton Flier Bags Two Planes While on Patrol

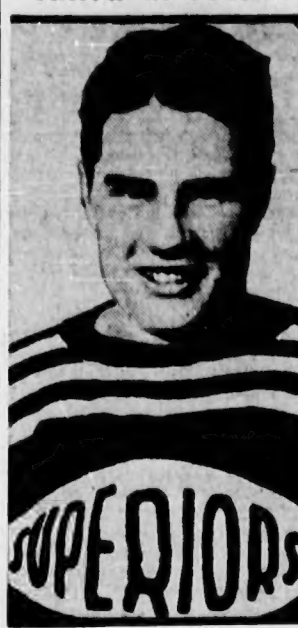

LONDON, July 18.—(CP)—Canadian Spitfire pilots on offensive patrols south of Caen shot down three Focke Wulf 190's yesterday. Two were destroyed by Ptl. Lt. W. W. L. Brown of Edmonton.

Canadian airmen flying with R.A.F. Mitchell medium bomber squadrons took part in an attack on an enemy fuel dump at Alencon, 40 miles south of Caen.

Airmen on the raid included Ptl. Sgt. A. Glasser of Fox Valley, Sask.; P.O. F. Graham of Edmonton; W.O. H. F. Bowmaster of Calgary; and Sgt. C. Polissant of Edmonton.

Glauser said neither anti-aircraft fire nor enemy fighters interfered with the Alencon operation.

Three Persons Suffer Injury In Tram Crash

Three passengers were taken to hospital and several others suffered cuts, bruises and shock when a white line street car crashed into the rear of a stationary blue and white line tram at the Jasper avenue and 109 street intersection shortly before 6 p.m. Monday.

The injured are Mrs. George Thomas, 28, of 10405 54 street, head cuts; John McLeod, 73, Vancouver, internal bruises; and Mrs. Loretta Donovan, 11131 127 street, back injury. They were taken to the General hospital in Jack Hays and Smith's ambulances. Mrs. Donovan was released after X-ray examination. Mr. McLeod is visiting his son, C. B. McLeod, 12106 Jasper avenue.

The white line car was operated by Motorman W. A. McKinnon, and the blue line car by L. E. Marshall. Passengers in both cars were showered with splintered glass as the windows of both cars were broken by the force of the collision.

Crowd Interrupts Godbout Address

LAUZON, Que., July 18.—(CP)—A scheduled election campaign address here last night by Premier Godbout was interrupted by part of the audience who started singing and shouting whenever the premier began his talk. The crowd sang "On Canada" and shouted "What about Guenette," each time he rose from his chair.

(The reference to Guenette was to Georges Guenette who was shot and killed by Royal Canadian Mounted Police seeking him on a charge of attacking a police officer.)

About 900 persons attended the open-air meeting, but only about one-third of the crowd joined in the interruptions. The hecklers included more than 50 men in khaki uniforms.

Mr. Godbout managed to say a few words but he was not allowed to hold the floor long. He was interrupted repeatedly and finally gave up his efforts to speak.

"I know that those now making trouble do not represent the real heart of Levis constituency," he said. "I am not afraid of them. I have worked for them and will continue to do so. I know many of them do not know what they are doing."

An Editorial Voting For or Against?

The confusion existing in some voters' minds, with four major political parties campaigning for votes on August 8, can be settled by looking at the record.

Under proportional voting in Calgary and Edmonton, with five seats each, no party can win them all. In the last house Edmonton had two Social Credit members, one Liberal, one Independent and one C.C.F. Calgary had two Social Credit, 2 Independent and one Liberal. The 47 single member constituencies elected the government.

In 1935, leaving out the two cities of Edmonton and Calgary, the transferable vote (second choice) effected not one seat.

In 1940, leaving out Edmonton and Calgary, only two seats were changed as a result of the transferable vote. Olds elected N. E. Cook, Social Credit, on the second count and St. Albert elected L. B. Tellier, Ind., on the second count. Olds would have elected an Independent and St. Albert would have elected a Social Credit member on first choice votes.

With all kindness to the many excellent candidates running for all parties the issue in this 1944 election is whether the Manning government is to be returned to office or defeated.

Premier Ernest Manning is young, able, honest and efficient. In fact his handling of Alberta affairs is the envy of every other province in Canada. Alberta has the most advanced social legislation—free cancer treatment, free T.B. treatment, free V.D. treatment and free hospitalization for all maternity cases. No other province provides such health services.

Alberta's school system is far in advance of every other province and is being further advanced year by year.

Alberta labor laws, minimum wage laws, workmen's compensation, etc., and what is vital, the enforcement of these laws for the benefit of employees is without equal in Canada.

Alberta pays the highest old age pensions permitted under the rules and regulations of the Dominion government. The Alberta government has requested the Dominion government to raise pensions to $50 per month and lower the age limit to 60 years and do away with all unfair regulations.

Aid and protection to the farmers, to the limit of provincial powers, is unequalled by any other government in Canada.

Only by voting (first choice) for Manning government candidates can voters return the government to office. Second choice votes only will not elect a single member to the legislature.

THINK and then VOTE August 8.

Pincers Move Soviets Aim Drive At Brest Litovsk

LONDON, July 18.—(BUP)—Premier Joseph Stalin announced tonight that the First Army of the Ukraine, in a new offensive toward Lwow in Lower Poland, has advanced 31 miles on a 124-mile front in three days of fighting. The Russians captured more than 600 towns and villages, including Brody, hedgehog base 50 miles northeast of Lwow.

LONDON, July 18.—Berlin said today that the Russian army had opened a new offensive aimed up from the Kowel area of old Poland toward Brest Litovsk, gateway to the Polish plains, against which other Soviet forces were driving from positions less than 16 miles to the north.

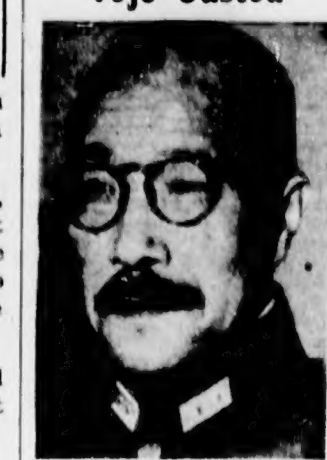

The giant pincers move against Brest Litovsk, keystone citadel of the German defences on the road to Berlin, was reported closing in as violent fighting raged all along a 475-mile front between Yarnopol in Polish Galicia and Daugavpils, Latvia.

Moscow dispatches said Red army lunges toward the Baltic from the Latvian frontier and northwestward from Grodno confronted the Germans with the possibility of facing a Baltic Dunkerque in a bid to obtain a balance when possible.

Mr. McGee said defence expenditures had been inadequate. Continued on Page 2, Col. 8

Weather Forecast Is "Fair and Warm"
The weather forecast for Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday is "fair and warm." The holidays should be quite pleasant with this as it is some time since the forecast was so favorable. The maximum temperature yesterday was 74 degrees, the minimum 46 degrees, the overnight low 48 degrees. The estimated low tonight is 52 degrees; high tomorrow 94 degrees. The temperature at 2 p.m. Tuesday was 75 degrees.

PREMIER GEN. TOJO

Successor Named Tojo Removed As Chief of Japanese General Staff

Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo, who led Japan to war against the United States, has been relieved as chief of the Japanese general staff, radio Tokyo announced today in a broadcast heard by the British United Press at San Francisco.

Following closely the resignation of Admiral Shigetarō Shimada as navy minister yesterday, the removal of "the razor" from control of the Japanese army indicated a major crisis in the Japanese empire.

The broadcast, which gave no indication that Tojo had relinquished his premiership or other governmental posts, said Gen. Yoshijiro Umezu had succeeded him as chief of the general staff.

NATIONAL CRISIS
Earlier today Tokyo had quoted Tojo as saying that the American conquest of Saipan, 1,500 miles from the Japanese capital, had thrust

Banking Study Says Balanced Budget Means Fewer Jobless

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Gilbert Jackson of Toronto, a former professor of economics, said before the Commons banking committee yesterday that a balanced federal budget means there would be less danger of unemployment than there would be otherwise.

Mr. Jackson, who appeared as a consultant for the Canadian Retail Federation, was questioned by G. G. McGee, K.C., (L.-Vancouver Burrard).

The committee is examining the bank bill which extends bank charters for 10 years.

Mr. Jackson said that notwithstanding balanced budgets Canada went "headlong" into the depression years of the 30's. After 1930, "A desperate effort" was made to balance budgets and defence estimates were kept down.

SEES LITTLE HOPE
He said he wondered what hope there was of balancing a budget which would represent far greater amounts in the future.

Mr. Jackson said if budgets could not be balanced he would despair of Canada. He did not speak of the budget being balanced every year, but having it balanced "normally." There should be an effort to obtain a balance when possible.

Mr. McGee said defence expenditures had been inadequate. Continued on Page 2, Col. 8

British, Canadians Gain Break-Through

LONDON, July 18.—The American First Army captured bitterly-defended St. Lo today and British and Canadian troops broke through below Caen behind a screen of almost 8,000 tons of bombs as the German line long containing the Normandy beachhead buckled in two vital sectors.

The showdown battle of Normandy was in full swing, and Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's Allied armies already had scored two significant victories in the massive onslaught aimed at breaking out of the German ring for a concrete sweep inland.

Soon after field dispatches announced the fall of St. Lo at the climax to the toughest American battle in France, Montgomery announced that his armor had achieved a major break-through across the Orne below Caen.

"The town of Vaucelles, lying on the south side of the Orne opposite Caen, is being cleared of the enemy, and strong armored and mobile forces are operating in the open country further to the south-east and south," a statement from Montgomery's headquarters said.

GREATEST AIR ATTACK
The most concentrated air bombardment in history paved the way for the British-Canadian breach in the German lines which broke the stalemate following the capture of Caen and sent the Allied armor careening forward toward the in-

LONDON, July 18.—Two American air fleets, totalling about 2,000 planes, struck from Britain and Italy today at Peenemunde, birthplace of Germany's flying bombs, another Baltic experimental station, the great aircraft centre of Friedrichshafen, and the Messingman air base 60 miles southwest of Munich.

The United States Eighth and 15th Air Forces teamed in the pincers attack on northern and southern Germany. The raid mounted from Britain may have interrupted work on rocket projectiles which Stockholm newspapers speculated might be aimed at the United States.

Crewmen of the nearly 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators reported that they planted their bombs squarely on the Peenemunde and Zinnowitz targets, touching off great columns of smoke over the mysterious plants.

DOUBLE-BARRELED RAID
Italian headquarters announced the double-barreled raid on Friedrichshafen and Messingman. British reported heavy explosions were audible from the direction of Friedrichshafen, but no German planes were seen.

Total of 21,689 Army Casualties

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Canadian army casualties in Canada and overseas from the start of the war to May 31 this year totalled 21,689, the defence department announced today.

Total deaths were 6,793, currently missing 439, currently prisoners of war or interned 3,829 and wounded 10,837.

The death toll was made up of 5,493 men killed or died, 202 men presumed dead and 1,388 dead from natural causes.

Those wounded did not include wounded prisoners of war and those who have died of wounds.

Woman Is Shot

Police Seeking Alleged Killer Near Cherhill

Royal Canadian Mounted Police were engaged in a manhunt Tuesday, searching for Paul Abraham, an Indian at Cherhill, whom they charge with the murder of his wife. The body of the woman, together with a .22 rifle, was found in some bushes a short distance from the camp site, by the woman's father and other members of the tribe, shortly after 10 p.m. Monday.

The shooting, said R.C.M.P. officials in Edmonton, followed a row believed to have been the continuation of a domestic upset, in the tent occupied by Abraham and his wife, and which took place between them and John O'Chase, the woman's father.

According to information received from the latter, the row came to an end when Abraham grabbed the gun and his 27-year-old wife ran from the tent into the bushes.

In spite of the father-in-law's remonstrations, and attempt to hold the younger man back, the latter got away and followed his wife. Shortly after a shot was heard.

A search was instituted and the body was found soon after. A bullet had passed through one hand and the head of the woman, police stated.

Near the body lay the discharged gun, but Abraham had fled, leaving no trace behind him.

R.C.M.P. from Edmonton are aided by the use of the organization's trained tracker, Petan Pan, a dog that has assisted in many manhunts across Canada. The animal is retained for that purpose at Vegreville.

Edmonton Airmen Bags One German, Damages Another

Coldwell Says C.C.F. Regarded As Bright Spot

province will be the proud possessor of an empty title, and a lot of empty hopes," said Mr. Roper.

Mr. Coldwell said he had no apologies to offer for taking part in the provincial campaign. The great problems facing the people, he said, were national policies. The C.C.F. was a major national movement with policies formulated by the people themselves to meet the needs of the people. "It differs from the Social Credit party which is isolationist in its provincial and national outlook. The C.C.F. has the same national policy in Alberta as it has in Quebec," he said.

The C.C.F. has made steady gains in all elections since 1940, and was receiving overwhelming support from soldiers, sailors and airmen who knew what they were fighting for as well as what they were fighting against, Mr. Coldwell said.

In the Saskatchewan election two out of every three service men and women voted C.C.F. and in Ontario last August three out of every five service personnel voted C.C.F., he said. "A great London newspaper interviewed Canadian personnel visiting London and reported that 83 per cent of those interviewed would vote C.C.F. The reason is that our men and women serving overseas know that the C.C.F. is fighting for the kind of democratic world for which they are fighting in Europe," he said.

FINANCED BY MEMBERS
Speaking on the financing of the C.C.F., Mr. Coldwell said that it was financed and controlled by its members. "We receive no contributions from big business, financial institutions or from liquor interests. All our money comes from farmers, workers and small business and professional people who want to see Canada a land owned and loved by its people. We have no tainted secret source of campaign funds," he said.

"We want the people of Alberta to unite with us and with the other democratic peoples' movements of the world, in winning the war against Hitlerism, and in building a post-war Canada and world of peace and prosperity," Mr. Coldwell concluded.

Results from the six provincial elections since 1940, and even more striking in the three since 1941, showed that the C.C.F. was a living, growing, peoples' movement in line with the democratic trends throughout the British Commonwealth while the old-line parties, including the Social Credit party, were dwindling away, Mr. Coldwell said.

"We want the Progressive people of Alberta who supported Social Credit because they believed its promises, to join the great progressive movement in Canada by joining the C.C.F.," said Mr. Coldwell.

People, he said, had come to realize everything in the value of money. "We should not think in terms of money—that is where the people of Alberta really went wrong a few years ago. It is the 'instant of usage' which counts. That is what we have learned from this war. Before the war there was no money. Since the war started we have spent twelve and a half billion dollars on the prosecution of the war."

"Our party does not question this, we will vote that much again for the winning of the war, but what we do say is that what we have done for destruction we can also do for construction. That is what our boys expect us today, and only a people's movement can adequately look after the people's sons," Mr. Coldwell said.

BEST COMPLIMENT

Mr. Roper said that the best compliment paid the C.C.F. in Alberta was the editorial which appeared in the Edmonton Journal a few days ago, in which the Journal, which in the past was aligned against the Social Credit movement, had suggested that Social Crediters cast their second choice votes in the coming election for Independent candidates. He said the about face of the Edmonton Journal and the Calgary Herald were indeed the highest compliments that could be paid to the C.C.F.

Mrs. Harris had left Vancouver the previous evening for Calgary. Conductor A. McFadyen said that Nurse N. S. J. Brunel, No. 3 Casualties Training, Portage LaPrairie, Man., a passenger on the train, rendered great assistance and service. Mother and baby were taken from the train here and placed under the care of C.P.R. Dr. D. J. Barclay.

upon Japan "an unprecedentedly great national crisis."

Loss of the key Marianas island was admitted by Japan only a few hours before Tojo's removal was announced, and apparently prepared the way for the statement.

Tojo's declaration on the Saipan crisis was contained in a special statement broadcast to the home empire.

The loss of the central Pacific stronghold in Japan's inner defenses had caused Emperor Hirohito "concern," Tojo said, and as a result "we are simply filled with trepidation."

PLANNED SNEAK ATTACK
Tojo, who became premier of Japan in the fall of 1941 and led the group of men who planned the sneak attack on Pearl harbor, took over the post of army chief of staff from Gen. Field Marshal Sugiyama last Feb. 21, after an earlier military shake-up in the face of continued American victories.

General Umezu was one of the organizers of the crack Kwangtung army along with Tojo, and has been commander in chief of Japanese forces in Manchukuo. He also has been Japanese ambassador to the puppet state.

Another Tokyo broadcast quoted Admiral Naokuni Nomura, new Japanese navy minister who succeeded Shimada yesterday, as telling a press conference that one man would no longer hold the dual posts of naval minister and chief of the naval general staff.

Five Jap Vessels Sunk or Damaged
By DON CASWELL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright, 1944, by British United Press.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, July 18.—Five Japanese vessels, including a troop-laden transport, were sunk or damaged by Allied warplanes in widespread attacks off Dutch New Guinea and in the East Indies, it was announced today.

The 1,500-ton transport, filled with men and supplies, was sunk off Halmahera in the Moluccas, where medium bombers also scored damaging near-misses on a 7,000-ton vessel and destroyed four loaded barges and a small craft.

Four Royal Australian Air Force Beaufighters heavily damaged and set afire two 4,000-ton merchant transports and a small vessel off Flores Island, east of Java, Sunday and shot down three enemy fighters.

A communiqué said advance patrols of the trapped Japanese forces along the Diniumor river east of Alupe, probed lightly against American lines, but were repulsed.

147 Candidates Are Contesting Alberta Seats

Hon. Solon Low, Alberta minister of public works and national leader of the Social Credit Association of Canada, speaking at the convention which nominated Mr. Landeryou, said: "Elect Landeryou in the Lethbridge constituency and he will promise to hard-surface the highway between Lethbridge and Couta."

(Charles Baker, a railway employee, was nominated at a meeting in Calgary last night to replace Mr. Landeryou on the Calgary Social Credit slate.)

C.C.F. NAMES 2 MORE CALGARY CANDIDATES

CALGARY, July 18.—(CP)—Lieut. allow his name to go before the were nominated C.C.F. candidates for Calgary in the provincial general election Aug. 8 by a nominating convention here yesterday.

The nominations brought the total number of C.C.F. candidates for Calgary seats to five. Cpl. Calvin Heimer, Ald. R. Alderman, and H. A. Wier, a teacher, were nominated.

Lieut. Torry, who recently spent some time in New Zealand, studying the work of the Labor government there, told the convention he felt Canada had been comparatively backward in social planning.

"The opportunity for young people in Canada lies in a different social order," he said.

FO. Lieserem, stationed in Edmonton with the R.C.A.F., was unable to attend the convention.

INDEPENDENTS CONTEST FOUR CALGARY SEATS

CALGARY, July 18.—(CP)—Four candidates will carry the banner of the Independent party in Calgary in the Aug. 8 Alberta general election, it was decided at a convention here last night.

Unanimous endorsement was given the candidacy of Mayor Andrew Davidson, J. J. Bowen, R. C. Carlucci, broker, and H. P. MacDonald, president of the Calgary board of trade.

James C. Mahaffy refused to allow his name to do before the convention.

PROGRAM OUTLINED

James H. Walker, provincial leader of the Independent party, outlined the program of his party.

The Independent party, said Mr. Walker, is the only party that offers you safety and security in the next government. They offer you safety for your homes and security for your businesses and industries.

If the C.C.F. attempted to keep its promises it would wreck the province," said Mr. Walker.

The Independent party was the only group that is in a position to cooperate with the Dominion government and attract Alberta's full share of the cheap money which would flow into Western Canada during the post-war rehabilitation years, he said.

Mr. Walker said that he believed a sound post-war program was the most essential thing required in the platform of any political party contesting this election. Only the Independent party was in a position to rehabilitate the province, he declared.

RED DEER, July 18.—W. J. Edgar, prominent farmer of the Innisfail district, Monday was unanimously nominated Independent party candidate for the Red Deer constituency in the provincial election on August 8.

The nominating convention was held in the Auditorium hotel here with about 35 in attendance.

W. H. Jackson, Innisfail, presided, supported by J. K. Rimington, Innisfail, secretary. Mr. Edgar was the Independent party candidate in the Red Deer election last December, when David L. Innisfail, Social Credit candidate, was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Alfred Speakman, M.L.A. for Red Deer.

GRANDE PRAIRIE, July 18.—William Rigby, well known farmer of the Grande Prairie district, was chosen Monday to carry the C.C.F. party's banner in the provincial election on Aug. 8.

The nominating convention was held in the old Capitol theatre.

Mr. Rigby was born in England and taught school there for 20 years before coming to Canada. He taught in Manitoba before coming to the Grande Prairie district 18 years ago. Mr. Rigby has been a member of the U.F.A. since its inception.

LETHBRIDGE, July 18.—(CP)—R. E. Eshen, of Skiff, was nominated C.C.F. candidate for Warner constituency in the provincial general election Aug. 8 by a nominating convention here last night.

Heavily Fortified Village Occupied By British Forces

KANDY, Ceylon, July 18.—(CP)—A formidable enemy barrier to the British advance southward in India along the Tiddim road has been removed with occupation of a heavily fortified village after it had been reduced by a tremendous artillery barrage, headquarters announced last night.

The village is Mingthonghong Kha Khuson. Most of the Japanese garrison was found dead. The defenders had crumpled in the face of the terrible barrage.

In the north Burma area, Allied troops consolidated the gains made in the last two days at the beleaguered Japanese base of Myitkyina, and made slight advances in the south-east sector.

Russians Hate in Silence As 57,600 Nazis "Parade"

MOSCOW, July 18.—(AP)—A German army of 57,600 men marched through Russia's capital yesterday, not in the goose-step triumph of their leader's dreams, but with the slogging tramp of beaten, captured soldiers.

A million Muscovites quietly but with hate and resentment in their eyes, watched this greatest procession in Moscow since the Red Army daringly went ahead with its parade through Red Square Nov. 7, 1941, while this same enemy thundered at the city's gates.

The crowds were silent. There were no boos, no signs of a demonstration.

"This is one of the most eloquent examples of discipline I have ever seen," said a high-ranking United States officer. "I didn't believe it could be done, for I know how these people hate the Germans."

PANICKED REFUGEES

Zurich dispatches quoted a traveler from Danzig as saying that the town was jammed with panicky refugees from east Prussia, "most of whom arrived in a deplorable state after an adventurous sea journey in small vessels from Königsberg and Tilsit."

The same source said refugees were pouring westward from East Prussia and the Baltics over the main roads to the Reich, and escorted freighters were lying day and night between Danzig and Königsberg in a growing evacuation of civilians and machinery.

Soviet front dispatches reported that the Russians were driving inexorably across the Niemen river, describing it as the last natural defense barrier on the way to East Prussia.

MOVING IN RESERVES

"It is known that Adolf Hitler is moving reserves to the Soviet-German front from other fronts," the government newspaper Ivestia said, without specifying which fronts were reported weakened in an attempt to stem the Red Army onrush toward German soil.

New Soviet offensive southeast of Brest Litovsk said the entire southern front from Tarnopol to Kovel blazed up, and the Germans were forced to pull back between Tarnopol and Brody, the twin bastions guarding the approaches to Lwow, biggest base in southern Poland.

Exploiting their two-week-old victory at Kovel, the Russians were described by Berlin as "attempting to reach Brest Litovsk, which appears to be the direction of the offensive."

Rob Bank Truck

MADRID, July 18.—(AP)—A Paris dispatch yesterday said six masked men armed with sub-machine guns halted a Bank of France truck near the suburb of St. Germain and robbed it of 105,000,000 francs (more than $2,000,000).

town on the night of Aug. 17, 1943, killing several of Germany's top scientists in a surprise attack that was believed to have set back experimental work on robot bombs by a number of months.

It was possible that the experimental stations at Peenemunde and Zinnowitz now were engaged in manufacturing and testing rocket projectiles which Swedish reports said carry 10 tons of explosives and are 25 times more destructive than the present jet-propelled missiles.

British four-engined Stirlings and Halifaxes last evening attacked robot bomb installations on coast of northern France while Mosquitoes raided Berlin. All bombers returned safely. A fighter which helped escort the bombers to northern France was lost, but the pilot was rescued.

were seen in action against the Allied bombers. One American bomber landed at the Dübendorf air drome in Switzerland.

Nearly 150 Flying Fortresses and an escort of 500 fighters sent a great weight of block busters and incendiary bombs crashing down on laboratories and other buildings at Peenemunde, 60 miles northwest of Stettin, and Zinnowitz, both on the Baltic sea coast.

Other unidentified targets in northwest Germany also were hit by the 8th Airforce armada, which flew out from Britain in the first good weather in many days. German broadcasts said Allied warplanes from Italy simultaneously struck into southern Germany.

The raid on Peenemunde was the first since R.A.F. bombers hit the blasted ships. The known injured included more than 200 civilians and about 100 naval personnel.

MOSTLY NAVAL DEAD

Norman Montellier, a British United Press staff correspondent, who was among the first newspapermen to reach Port Chicago, reported that Deputy Sheriff John Long said he had made a survey of the explosion scene and would estimate the dead at 350, mostly naval personnel.

Not a sign remained of the two vessels, which were docked alongside the loading wharf at Port Chicago. Cause of the blast remained unknown, with no report from possible survivors yet made public.

An Associated Oil Company barge, anchored between the two ships, and was reported destroyed, along with several other small ships nearby.

Coastguardsmen who reached the scene within 10 minutes picked up four seriously injured men. They said strong winds and tides swept other possible survivors and debris up the channel.

OTHER BOATS DESTROYED

Two small coast guard boats, a crash boat and a fire barge also were destroyed in the blast which sent a sheet of flame 1,000 feet into the sky and rocked towns and cities within a 50-mile radius of Port Chicago, the navy announcement said.

No accurate estimate of the number of dead and injured will be available until musters are held later today, the Navy reported, adding that the situation is now under control.

A crew member of one of the vessels, the Quinault Victory, said 70 members of her 200-man crew were aboard when the blast occurred at 10 p.m. P.W.T. (11:00 p.m. M.D.T.).

Two hundred negro sailors were reported loading ammunition on the wharf, which the Navy described as receiving most of the damage, along with nearby wartime Naval installations.

200 IN HOSPITALS

The Red Cross reported four civilian deaths, and the Navy said four members of the two coast guard boats were missing. More than 200 persons, many of them women and children, were listed as having been treated at hospitals throughout the surrounding area.

Small craft were warned away from the port area, 35 miles north-east of San Francisco, since live ammunition was reported floating on oil-slicked waters, the Navy said.

The town of Port Chicago was "badly wrecked" and isolated. The blast blew out doors and windows in residences five miles away, awakened people 50 miles distant and the glare was seen at Santa Cruz, on the sea coast 1100 miles to the south.

NO EXTENSIVE FIRE

Broadcast appeals for medical and disaster aid, which brought doctors, nurses and officials from Contra Costa and Alameda counties, were cancelled early today when the navy said the situation was under control. There was no extensive fire in the area, despite the ammunition blast, escaping gas and broken power lines.

No fire resulted from the explosion, the Contra Costa sheriff's office and other eye-witnesses reported that the town was blacked out, that water mains apparently were broken, but there were no fires.

"There was a flash that went 1000 feet into the air," one eye-witness reported. "Then pieces of metal rained down like hail."

A 150-pound piece of metal, 18 feet long, was blown through the air for a mile.

URNS NIGHT INTO DAY

The first blinding flash mushroomed into the sky, turning night into day, and then fell apart into myriads of red incandescent streaks, cascading downward like giant tracer bullets, eye-witnesses reported.

Within a few moments the roar of the blast shot out across the San Francisco Bay area, causing rumors of an earthquake as windows were shattered and plaster fell from ceilings and walls 30 miles away.

terior of France across the flat farmlands to the south and south-east.

Fifteen hundred heavy bombers, 500 medium and light bombers, and hundreds of lighter planes pounded the German positions within a semi-circle lying roughly seven miles around Caen between 8 and 9 a.m., cascading nearly 8,000 tons of explosives into a 75-square-mile area.

Four thousand Halifax and Lancaster heavy bombers of the Royal Air Force alone delivered 5,000 tons of bombs in 45 minutes. Six hundred American Liberators swarmed in later to unload another great weight on the crumbling German positions.

AIMED ACROSS ORNE

Supreme headquarters refused for the time being to delineate the break-through. The concentration of air power indicated, however, that the attack probably was aimed across the Orne northeast of Caen, and broke out of the bridgehead maintained across the lower Orne since D-Day.

The simultaneous reports from the front that St. Lo had fallen and the Germans were falling back in apparent preparation to abandon Periers and Lessay meant that the Normandy front was aflame everywhere, rolling forward, and threatening to collapse the over-all German defences if the original impetus can be maintained.

The following statement was issued from Montgomery's headquarters:

"Early this morning British and Canadian troops of the Second Army attacked and broke through into the area east of the Orne and southeast of Caen."

"The attack was preceded and supported by a very great weight of air power organized by the A.E.F."

"The town of Vaucelles lying on the south side of the Orne, opposite Caen, is being cleared of the enemy, and strong armored and mobile forces are operating in open country further to the southeast and south."

MONTY SATISFIED

"Heavy fighting continues. General Montgomery is well satisfied with the progress made in the first day's fighting of this battle."

Montgomery's flat statement that a break-through had been achieved and his forces were advancing across the ideal tank country below Caen showed that the Second Army had achieved a success of gigantic proportions, which was expected to have tremendous effects on the entire battlefront.

Complete surprise was achieved in the early morning offensive, despite the fact that the Germans had observation facilities over the entire length of the Orne.

This was due largely to the fact, which now can be revealed, that the series of British-Canadian assaults southwest of Caen represented an elaborate scheme to outwit Marshal Erwin Rommel on the location of the main attack. Actually these attacks were limited in scope, involving a relatively small part of the great masses of tanks and infantry pouring into the bridgehead for 44 days.

The Germans had been packed into the Vaucelles suburb of Caen in strength, facing the British and Canadians across the Orne in the city, for nine days. But tonight they were being cleared out of this last large inhabited area in the south-east environs of Caen.

VITAL ROAD HUB

The fall of St. Lo was fore-shadowed by the disclosure that the American forces had stormed back into the town, hub of seven main roads radiating to all parts of Normandy, and the admission by the in 1938 and 1939. Robert Boothby, a United Kingdom member of parliament, had placed causes of the war at the door of bankers.

Mr. Jackson said he did not know what qualifications Mr. Boothby had to make the statement.

Mr. McGeer said Mr. Boothby had been a parliamentary assistant to Winston Churchill before the latter became Prime Minister. He must have had some qualifications.

"I sometimes look at parliamentary assistants with wonder," said Mr. Jackson.

EXPANSION NOT SOLUTION

Mr. Jackson said expansion of credit by the Bank of Canada would not be the solution of any underlying economic condition that might make such expansion desirable under certain conditions.

Mr. McGeer said there had been an enormous increase in public expenditures since the war began. They could not have been increased without enlarging the money in circulation. The necessity of increasing the volume of money in meeting depression or war conditions had been demonstrated.

Mr. Jackson said that in wartime Canadians were seeking to save their country, and were doing things with which financial purists might not agree.

IMPORTANT UTILITY

Mr. McGeer said the issue and withdrawal of credit had been called the most important public utility and he wondered if Mr. Jackson agreed with present control methods.

Mr. Jackson said the control should be left where it was, with the Bank of Canada.

Norman Jaques (S.C.—Wetaskiwin) said the people demanded security after the war and were willing to lose some of their individual freedom if necessary. But with money reform social security could be given and individual enterprise retained.

Mr. Jackson said that if human liberties were abolished in Canada no doubt full employment could be ensured. He made the comment after Mr. McGeer asked if Russia had not found means of using the money system most effectively.

Japanese Attacks Are Thrown Back

CHUNGKING, July 18.—(AP)—Encircled Chinese troops in the Canton-Hankow rail junction of Hengyang have thrown back Japanese attacks on the city, but a second break-through has been made by the enemy in attacks from the southwest suburbs, the Chinese high command admitted last night.

Some Japanese stormed through as far as the city's municipal hospital. The hospital and other original positions were retaken in counter-attacks, the Bulletin said.

In Kwangtung province Japanese have narrowed the gap between their Hunan and Kwangtung forces to 170 miles in their drive to complete conquest of the Canton-Hankow-Peking route bisecting China for 1,000 miles from north to south.

However, the high command indicated the Japanese had been unable to reach Yinkai, one of the immediate goals of this offensive.

Reported Killed

LONDON, July 18.—(CP)—The London Daily Sketch reported yesterday in its "inside information" column that "Hitler's half-brother Alois, a one-time restaurant keeper," was killed in a recent Allied raid on Munich.

German radio that the furious battle was nearing a climax as the troops closed in from three sides.

The First Army drove within a mile and a half of St. Lo on July 12. Since then the Americans and Germans had been slugging it out around the town in the heaviest sustained fighting since D-Day.

Only yesterday the U.S. vanguard crashed into St. Lo, 175 miles west of Paris, only to be driven out and to forge back through its outskirts for violent fighting with bayonet and grenade in its battle-scarred streets.

Retain Authority

Tory Amendments Defeated As Commons Approves Bill For Air Transport Board

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—The Commons last night gave third reading to a government bill establishing an air transport board after Progressive Conservative opposition to clauses which they said gave too much power to the minister administering the act.

Three Progressive Conservative amendments, all designed to limit the minister's power, were defeated, with Munitions Minister Howe, sponsor of the bill, saying the authority was necessary for efficient operation.

Although the amendments were moved by Progressive Conservatives, two Calgary Liberal members, George Ross and Manly Edwards, both said they did not like the idea of appeals from board rulings going to the minister instead of the governor-in-council or some outside authority.

SUGGESTION ACCEPTED

Mr. Howe accepted a suggestion made earlier in the debate by J. G. Diefenbaker (P.C.—Lake Centre) and moved an amendment to the draft bill providing that an appeal might be taken from the air transport board to the Supreme Court of Canada on a question of jurisdiction or of law, or both, upon leave being granted by a judge of this court.

H. R. Jackman (P.C.—Toronto Rosedale) said the bill would not prevent the government subsidizing trans-Canada air lines. He said he wondered if the TCA now was not being subsidized indirectly.

While at Lethbridge, Alta., last Easter he saw an American army truck, "probably at the cost of the American people," servicing a TCA plane. In North Bay, Ont., TCA was using a station that belonged to the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Howe said that on the Northwest Staging Route American trucks sometimes served Canadian planes and Canadian trucks served American planes. About 80 per cent of the planes using the northwest route were American. In North Bay, the TCA probably had borrowed space in a C.N.R. station, in any event the transaction was small.

SECOND READING

Following passage of the air transport board bill, the Commons gave second reading and passed through committee of the whole a complementary measure, divorcing from the transport act any section dealing with air services.

Progressive Conservatives launched a move to have the proposed air transport board independent of ministerial control in the granting of air lines' licenses when discussion on the bill was resumed yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Diefenbaker described a provision in amendments to the aeronautics act making the board's actions "subject to the approval of the minister" as "arbitrary, dangerous and autocratic." He proposed an amendment to delete the words. But it was defeated by a standing vote of 43 to 15. C.C.F. members supported the government.

Munitions Minister Howe said Mr. Diefenbaker would turn over the domain of the air to a board of men appointed for long terms and subject to no control by the government and parliament. It represented a view of responsible government quite different from that taken in forming the government's policy.

REJECTIONS UNLIKELY

In practice, said Mr. Howe, it was unlikely the minister would reject the recommendations of the board. He might occasionally refer a question back to the board for further consideration.

Howard Green (P.C.—Vancouver South) asked who would be responsible for deciding what routes would be flown and who would decide between competing firms.

Mr. Howe said the minister would decide the routes to be flown on the advice of the governor-in-council.

Those who would fly the routes would be decided by the minister, on advice of the board.

On another clause objection was taken by George A. Ross (L.—Calgary East) and Mr. Green to allowing an appeal from the board to the minister. They said the appeal should be to the governor-in-council and Mr. Green moved an amendment to that effect.

After a brief debate the amendment was defeated on a standing vote of 43-22.

Mr. Howe said an appeal to the governor-in-council was not workable. In all the years that appeals were possible from the board of transport commissioners no appeal had succeeded and there were always long delays in getting a hearing.

PROTESTS SYSTEM

Manley Edwards (L.—Calgary West) said he did not like the system under which a person making an appeal had to appeal to the same authority which made the first decision.

The authority should be left with the board of three rather than left to the minister.

Mr. Green then said a bill clause gave authority for any air carrier whose licence had been suspended to appeal to the minister.

In this instance the appeal should be to the governor-in-council rather than to the minister.

Mr. Green moved an amendment that the appeal be to the governor-in-council.

Mr. Howe said there had to be authority over air services. If a licence could be made an exemption on appeal and find whether the board had acted too harshly.

Mr. Green's amendment was defeated by 35 votes to 17.

The house then approved an amendment moved by Mr. Howe that the board have authority to fix maximum hours of work for pilots and co-pilots.

Woman's Arm Is Bitten Off By Polar Bear

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP)—The right arm of Miss Catherine Seales, 24, of Rahway, N.J., was bitten off yesterday by "Soc," a male Polar bear at the Central Park Zoo, after, police said, the animal had been awakened in its cage at 2 a.m.

Police said the girl, daughter of Henry Malcolm Seales, zinc manufacturer, went to the Zoo with another woman and two men.

They stopped in front of the open-air cage in which "Soc" and a female Polar bear, "Con," were asleep.

Police said Miss Seales waved her handkerchief at "Soc." The bear struck at it, his claw caught her hand and then he sank his teeth into her arm above the elbow.

Cheney and William Chick, of Boston, held a lighted newspaper at his snout until "Soc" released his grip.

Bill Introduced

Family Allowance Scheme To Cost $200,000,000 Year

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—The family allowance scheme as proposed by the government will cost about $200,000,000 a year, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons.

He made the statement after moving a resolution preliminary to the introduction of a bill to establish the allowances. The resolution was passed, the bill introduced and given first reading.

Mr. King said the estimate was prepared by the finance department and the bureau of statistics. The gross outlay, under the bill, said Mr. King, was estimated at $250,000,000 a year. The amount recoverable by reason of cancellation of income tax exemptions for dependent children would be $50,000,000 to $60,000,000.

PROPOSED SCALE

The bill outlined the proposed scale of allowances. The scale would be $5 a month for a child less than six years old; $6 a month for a child six or more years old and less than 10 years; $7 a month for a child 10 or more years old but less than 13, and $8 a month for a child 13 or more years old but less than 16.

The allowances, scheduled to become effective July 1, 1945, would be paid in respect of each child in Canada under 16 years of age in accordance with the scale. However, the benefits for large families would be limited, the rates in the various age groups would be reduced by $1 a month in respect to the fifth child; $2 per month in respect of the sixth and seventh and $3 in respect of the eighth and additional child or children.

Officials said the allowances would have their greatest benefit for families in the low income groups, but the bill did not indicate what changes would be made in the income tax regulations to permit recovery of the allowances paid to families in the higher income groups.

Under the income tax act a reduction in tax payable was granted a taxpayer for a child. When the allowances come into effect, the reduction granted for a child would be reduced by "an appropriate amount" based upon the family allowances payable under the measure.

This "appropriate amount" possibly would be announced at a later date by Finance Minister Hsley.

In cases where the taxpayer's income ranged from $5,000 upwards it was probable there would be little cash benefit from the allowances, it was learned, but in the smaller income groups the entire cash amount of the allowances would be received without affecting taxation.

The bill revealed that the allowances would be paid to a "father, stepfather, adoptive father, foster father, mother, stepmother, adoptive mother, foster mother or any other person who maintains or has the custody of a child." The payments, however, would not be made to operators of institutions.

The federal cabinet would be empowered to make regulations, and it was indicated that when these regulations are drawn up some provision will be made for the payment of allowances to children in institutions.

Selection System Adopted by Navy

OTTAWA, July 18.—The Canadian navy has adopted a personnel selection setup—similar to that of the army and air force—to ensure that round pegs fit round holes. Naval orders tabled yesterday in the Commons by Navy Minister Macdonald disclosed that a directorate of personnel selection has been established and that personnel selection officers have been appointed in the various commands.

Anti-U-Boat Fleet Honored With Awards

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Canada's anti-U-boat fleet was honored yesterday when Navy Minister Macdonald announced award of six medals and 18 mentions in dispatches to members of the fleet.

The decorated men served with a group of Canadian ships that trailed a German submarine, blew it to the surface, sank it with shellfire and then took a number of prisoners. The British destroyer learned aided in the action.

CORVETTE IN FIGHT

The veteran Canadian corvette Chilliack, which played the major role in the fight, had the largest representation—six names—in the list. Her commanding officer, Lt.-Cmdr. C. R. Coughlin, Montreal and Ottawa, won the Distinguished Service Cross, while Engine Room Artificer A. Longbottom, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Signalman J. R. Starr, Winnipeg, won Distinguished Service Medals.

The crew of another expert U-boat hunter, the frigate St. Catharines, won four honors. Lieut. W. G. Gooderham, Vancouver, won the D.S.C., and Petty Officer Edward Badger, Toronto, the D.S.M. Chief Stoker J. E. F. Parker, Red Deer, Alta., and Leading Seaman N. L. Bourne, Vancouver, were mentioned in dispatches.

AB. F. D. Craig, Kamack, Sask., brought a D.S.M. honor to the destroyer Gatineau while four of her ship's company were mentioned in dispatches, including Lt.-Cmdr. H. V. W. Gross, her commanding officer of Victoria and Halifax; Leading Stoker G. H. McGinn, Kamloops, B.C., and Chief Engine Room Artificer N. J. Laderoute, Fort William, Ont.

FIVE WIN MENTION

Five members of the crew of the corvette Fennel were mentioned in dispatches including: Lieut. T. C. Todd, Victoria and Chester, N.S., Chief Engine Room Artificer J. E. Williams, Toronto and Victoria.

Four members of the destroyer Chaudiere were mentioned in dispatches that included Lt.-Cmdr. C. P. Nixon, commanding officer, of Victoria, Chief Petty Officer Telegraphist A. J. Carrington, Calgary and Victoria.

The first account of destruction of the submarine singled out Sigmund Starr at present at the naval signal school at St. Hyacinthe, Que.—for his prompt action in manning an Oerlikon gun and opening fire on the submarine after it had been brought to the surface by depth charge attacks.

"He was a ball of fire all the way through," said Lt.-Cmdr. Coughlin.

START OF ACTION

The action started when the Gatineau was about to leave the convoy because of a distiller defect. She obtained an underwater contact which her commanding officer, Lt.-Cmdr. Gross, was confident was a sub. A moment later the wake of a torpedo was seen close to the Gatineau. Depth charge attacks were made by Gatineau, St. Catharines, Chilliack and Fennel.

When the U-boat surfaced, such terrific fire was brought to bear that the sub crew did not have a chance to man their guns.

Boats were launched from four of the Canadian ships but three of them capsized in heavy seas and a motorboat and whaler from Chaudiere had the task of rescuing both Canadians and prisoners. No Canadian lives were lost.

Canadians of Two World Wars Know The Meaning of 9 WATERLOO PLACE

The main office of the Bank in London—the "City" office—is situated at 47 Threadneedle Street, E. C. 2.

Men of Passchendaele, Ypres and Vimy—thousands of Canadians who fought in the Great War of 1914-18—know well the services and convenience of the Bank of Montreal's West End office at 9 Waterloo Place in London.

A rendezvous for servicemen, this office provided them not only with complete banking facilities but with a convenient place in which to read the Canadian papers, to write letters, to meet friends and to pick up mail.

These same services are being given today to the men and women of all branches of Canada's overseas forces, as well as to civilians who may be visiting London in this second great world war.

The men and women of the Bank of Montreal in London know how to assist newcomers to London and, quite aside from banking assistance, can be most helpful to the men and women of Canada's armed forces in England. To every one of them our people extend a warm welcome.

The Bank of Montreal is glad to contribute this service as a feature of its war effort.

Alberta's Debt

Between 1921 and 1936 Alberta's debt increased to $158,081,350, growing at the average rate of $4,305,000 every year.

Between 1936 and 1943 Alberta's debt was reduced to $140,794,191, decreasing at the average rate of $2,469,650 every year.

Now debt enslaves governments as well as individuals and Alberta's retreat from debt is an accomplishment that lightens the financial burden of every citizen of the province.

The iniquity of debt lies in the exorbitant interest rates. The total interest paid by Alberta between 1908 and 1936 was $98,000,000.

These intolerable debt charges have been reduced as follows:
Average interest rate in 1935, 4.89 per cent
Average interest rate since

1935 2.44 per cent
Interest paid 1935-36 $7,473,153
Interest paid 1942-43 $4,117,063

The Manning Government is making every effort to secure an equitable refunding of Alberta's debt. When these efforts are completed the debt problem of the province will be nearer solution than those of most Canadian provinces.

These facts, indicating the administrative record of the Manning Government, will be carefully considered by Alberta voters when they go to the polls on August 8.

Ignorance on Parade

Here are extracts from a campaign speech by Jacques Sauriol, Bloc Populaire candidate for Montreal-Maisonneuve:

"Five years have gone by in which we have been told repeatedly of the threat of Fascism and Nazism. Have you yet seen Mussolini in Canada? You have not. But you have seen the King and Churchill."

"The British Empire is an institution so wicked and damnable that it has to have a war every 20 years to keep it going."

"The English soldier is the worst in the world and it is necessary for Canadians to fight England's battles and be killed in the place of the English in the hell of Caen."

There is, of course, no answer to such juvenile maunderings. Indeed there is very little to be said about it at all except to wonder what the relatives and friends of French-Canadian boys who have fought gallantly and well in this war really feel about such frantic insults to their splendid service.

There is another point that should probably be noted. Premier Godbout, in his attempts to revise and reform the Quebec educational system, has inferred that the greatest evil besetting the people of Quebec is the total inadequacy of their educational system.

This inference is shriekingly corroborated by Mr. Sauriol's amazing confusion of mind. Never, in the history of politics, has there been displayed such a wild mixture of frenzied hatred and stupid misinformation.

To say such absurd and fantastic things is a pitiable parade of ignorance. To believe them is an even more tragic admission of dullness.

Aid to Russia

Figures just released by the United Kingdom Information Office show that, in the two and a half years from June 1941 to the end of 1943, British aid to Russia included:

6,778 aircraft
5,031 tanks
4,620 vehicles
32,000 tons of aluminum
37,000 tons of copper
81,423 tons of rubber

This is in addition to huge quantities of foodstuffs, machine tools, guns, tin, jute and other war materials.

In light of these facts it is obvious how mistaken and even mischievous were the assertions of those wisecracks who "had it on best authority" that Marshal Stalin, impatient over the long delay in opening a second front, was at the point of breaking with his British allies.

There is no doubt whatsoever that Stalin knew the exact date of the invasion months ahead and completely approved of it. Moreover, the above facts reveal that Russia would have had grave difficulty in carrying on the war at all without British and American assistance.

The truth is that the entire global campaign is a co-operative effort and that the closest understanding exists between all the chief allies. They are utterly interdependent.

Speculation that tends to destroy confidence in the good faith between them is very close to treasonable.

Bewildered Builders

Home owners and home builders have no lack of advice in these times. If they want to improve a home or build one they must fulfill certain necessary wartime regulations or they get no permit for their materials.

That is all sound, for the war effort demands controls. But they could do, perhaps with more consistency.

For instance, Hon. C. D. Howe tells people they will have to conserve fuel, and that they should insulate houses where necessary.

At the same time, Mr. J. G. Godsoe, chairman of the Wartime Industries Control board, tells Canadians that control officials "must confine the issuance of licensing to projects which are needed to provide homes for those without accommodation. Projects which aim merely to provide improved accommodation must be deferred until the period of scarcity is over."

Similarly, home owners are advised to get coal in now; but they find when they attempt to do so that their dealers either have no coal or that wartime industries have eloped with their hired help.

All of which shows that this country is facing up to its problems. And if the poor home builder sometimes gets bewildered, trying to look at too many problems at once, he is still better off than in a slit trench or a fox-hole.

The war has increased Canada's national debt somewhat more than three times. But the interest rate has declined from an average of 3.52 to 2.57 per cent, and the annual charges have gone up only 2 1/4 times. Had the present war been financed on a 5 per cent basis, as the First Great War, the interest charges would now be at least 3 1/4 times what they were five years ago. It is the interest rate that fixes the real burden of the debt.

One of the Chinese airfields from which American bombers have been raiding Japanese industrial centres has been abandoned, and it is broadly hinted that the others in eastern China may also have to be given up to the Japs. This set-back is a long result of the enemy strategy in invading Burma and seizing the famous "road" over which munitions were trucked to Chungking. If it is true that ground forces cannot operate successfully without air coverage, it is apparently also true that an air force cannot hold territory without the support of ground troops.

A public meeting was held at Leduc for the purpose of organizing a statute labor and fire district. An executive committee was formed, with E. L. Blades, chairman; N. B. Heath, secretary, and N. Vincent, treasurer.

Prof. Robertson, dairy commissioner, Ottawa, is to visit Edmonton this summer in the interests of the dairy business.

News was received yesterday of the death at Indian Head of Malcolm McLeod of Edmonton. Deceased came to Edmonton in 1886.

The question of securing a thoroughly practicable right-of-way from the business centre of the town on Jasper avenue to the river at the lower ferry landing, assumes very great importance at the present time by reason of the necessity for an early decision by the Dominion government as to the site of the proposed traffic bridge. There is every reason to believe that at least a show of going on with the bridge will be made at once. Everyone knows where the business interests of this town require that the bridge should be located, namely, some place near the lower ferry landing, and everyone knows that a strong influence has been, and will be, brought to bear to have it located elsewhere, at a point where it would be of the least possible benefit to the present business interests of the town.

The Political Consequences of the Russian Advance

Liberation of Poland Will Be the Liberation of Europe

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

Within a fortnight or so, we may expect to learn that Russian troops are on the soil of that part of Poland which is uncontested, and that the Russian war will be won in this territory—as the Anglo-American war against Germany will be won in France.

In the case of Poland this fact carries with it great political consequences. The liberation of Poland will be, in effect, the liberation of Europe, and will open the gates to the heart of Germany. In the situation the continued dead-end lock in relations between the Russian government and the Polish government-in-exile in London must reach an immediate solution, if any solution is ever to be formed. For it is obvious that the Soviet government is in a position to all but dictate terms to Poland.

What do they want to dictate—if anything? The frontier demands of the Soviets are well known. They have announced them openly but even in this question it is not generally known whether compromises are not possible.

The more delicate question, however, is the political one. Do the Soviets favor a genuinely independent Poland or is their object a sovietized Poland? What type of government will they recognize? Who will choose the members of the government—the Soviet Union? Have the Soviets not already set up a provisional government in the "Union of Polish Patriots in Moscow?"

Was this institution not already a Sovietized Polish army in Russia? Was not the rift between the Vatican and the Soviet Union such that the breach between Polish Catholics and any government supported by the Soviet Union is not to be healed?

These are questions which have been asked for months and no satisfactory and all-inclusive answer has yet been made.

Two men went to Moscow to ask just these questions, and obtained clear and definite answers to them. One of them, Father Orlemani, has been unable to speak because of the discipline of his church, though that this chapter is not yet closed is revealed by the report that he will go to the Vatican.

But the companion of his mission to Moscow, Professor Oscar Lange of Chicago, also knows the answers, and if he has not spoken it is obvious that he has chosen to carry his information to Polish and American diplomatic headquarters rather than risk being accused of making propaganda. It is known, for instance, that he had a prolonged conversation with the Polish prime minister, Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, when the latter was recently in the United States, that the prime minister was greatly impressed.

But time is running short. The sensational advance of the Red army is going to solve this problem with or without the Polish government-in-exile.

And that is doubtless the reason Professor Lange, of his own initiative, has opened to me with fullest candor, the results of his mission.

First of all, the Soviet Union desires to reach an understanding with the Polish government-in-exile. There are objections to the type of government as it exists today, but the Soviet government prefers a reorganization to a substitute. It is prepared to recognize the London government-in-exile as "legitimate." The initiative to an agreement will come, the Soviets hope, from this government. The Soviet government does not demand the inclusion of any specific persons in a reorganized government.

There is no demand, for instance, that the government include any of the members of the Union of Polish Patriots in Moscow, or the peasant leader, Witos, whose name has been mentioned. The example to be followed would be that of the understanding reached between King Peter and the Tito forces in Yugoslavia. The new Yugoslav government is a Yugoslav creation and its members have not been picked by the Soviet union and are inclusive of varieties of political views.

The present Polish government-in-exile is unsatisfactory because of the outspoken anti-Russian trends of a few of its members. For instance, there is General Sosnkowski, who is not only commander-in-chief in the present cabinet but the constitutional successor of President Wladyslaw Rakiczkiewicz in case of the death or resignation of the latter. Sosnkowski has an anti-Russian record of long standing.

The Soviets do not ask that he be demoted from the Polish army but they want to exclude his powerful political influence.

With the exclusion from positions of power of known anti-Russians the Soviets hope for a Polish coalition government most widely inclusive of all Polish patriotic parties and forces.

There Is a Squalor of Luxury

Corruption of Children Blamed on More Than Poverty

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—I suppose we must give Mrs. Roosevelt and Mayor La Guardia credit for sincerity and good intentions in their attempts to deal with waywardness in children but it seems to be that their understanding is cramped by their politics.

La Guardia has been mayor of New York for about 10 years and just at this time it is no exaggeration to say that child squalor is in greater measure rampant than ever before in the history of the city.

Corruption in some of the New York public schools and particularly in La Guardia's own residential and political district of the city, than he ent by misrepresenting him in its news columns as well.)

All this adds up to a complete collapse of the theories advocated by Mr. Green, by Colonel Drew, by some of the Tory Press. Mr. King may take satisfaction in a victory but the victory is truly not his, but the Canadian people's, whom the politicians of the Conservative Party are properly trying to represent.

However, the collapse may not be permanent. The Titans have been driven underground or into a humorous distortion of Mr. King's present views, but they may be expected to arise again whenever the weather looks better. They dare not take the issue to the people but they will not forget it and so long as Mr. King follows a certain line of policy they will believe, with unquestioned sincerity, that it must be wrong by an inevitable law of nature.

Henry Ford Refuses to Grow Old

His Life Is Vital Mixture Of Ancient and Modern Ideas

By MARQUIS CHILDS

DETROIT, Mich.—Henry Ford's private dining-room in the Dearborn engineering laboratory in Greenfield village is paneled in early American pine, but the air conditioning is strictly modern.

Henry Ford's whole life is like that—a strange blending of old and new, of what is past and what is still on the way. That may be, in fact, an explanation of the genius that has done so much to change the habits of mankind.

Today at 81—he'll soon be 82—Henry Ford looks as well-preserved, as canny, as shrewd, as he did 20 years ago. The flicker of his genius, his aliveness, is in his eyes which move quickly, piercingly, when they are not veiled in contemplation.

You realize, talking with him, that his mind runs in much the same channels it did when he was in mid-career. He never ceases being thankful for the fact he is not responsible to stockholders. Except for a small fraction, the stock of the billion-dollar Ford Company is held by Old Henry and the members of his family.

If you had stockholders, you couldn't do the things you wanted to do. You couldn't build schools for the workers on your rubber plantation in the Amazon Valley. You couldn't fiddle around with little experiments that sometimes produce startling results.

Ford is acutely conscious that his or she would be in certain of the slightly gainful summer occupations which the mayor proscribes. Little criminals break into the schools at night in vacation time and destroy furniture, machinery and records and there have been many cases of stabbing and shooting, including the episode in which two little girls killed another in a public school in the presence of a number of other children and teachers. Teachers have been punched around and generally terrorized, too, and there are reports of rocks being thrown through Mr. La Guardia's own Harlem where his personal and political protegee, Vito Marcantonio, the only unfailing spokesman of the Communist party line in Congress, officiates as the presiding spirit of the New Deal.

The mayor has reminded his subjects that newspaper and publishing plants are forbidden areas of summer employment for children under 16. Yet, except for the influence of the Communist members of the newspaper guild, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is a member, the young would be better off morally, and in less peril physically, in the office of a daily newspaper than in those public schools under his own tight and autocratic jurisdiction where not mere mischief but downright, dangerous criminality is ripe.

The Communists, of course, are devoted to the intentional corruption of youth. This program and details of its operation were set forth in the confessional autobiography of Benjamin Gitlow, the predecessor of Earl Browder as the American chief of the Moscow conspiracy. Still, with few exceptions, those allied with the new deal, the New York newspaper plants are so manned that the Communists could not prevail over the better example of the American members of the staffs, who are, on the whole, normally decent men and women whose influence would be good.

Both La Guardia and Mrs. Roosevelt have indicated a belief that poverty itself, is a stronger influence for corruption in the young than the facts show it to have been. They seem unaware that we have in our midst a kind of people who company is the last big enterprise which is not controlled by eastern capital. His suspicion of the New York bankers comes out of his own fierce struggle in the automotive field, and it's rooted, too, in his own sense of himself as a mid-lander.

In spite of all his power, Henry Ford seems to regard himself as he did when he was a young man tinkering around with the horseless carriage. He's a citizen doing a hard day's work every day, who has put together a good, sizeable family business.

Ford has a scorn for idlers, for men who don't earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. That's one thing he finds wrong with the system of stockholding—it produces dividends which encourage people to live in idleness.

On the young man's seat, on his right, Old Henry Ford's home, Henry Ford II, 26 years old, tall, broadshouldered, is learning the business. At the death of Edsel Ford, his father, Henry II was required to inactivity duty from the navy to help run the company's vast war industry. Young Henry's two brothers, Benson and William, are in the armed services.

Henry II describes himself modestly as an apprentice. He's under the tutelage of his grandfather and of Harry Bennett, formerly head of the Ford police system and now in a key position in the Ford empire. One thing that struck me most forcibly was that in spite of the nearly 60 years that separate them and all that has happened in those 60 years, the thinking of young

The Soviets do not, therefore, demand a left-wing government, not to mention a "red" one. They have no objection to the inclusion of conservatives, if they are not anti-Russian. They do not dictate the internal social structure of the future Poland. The Soviet objections to the present government are specific and strictly limited, and they are based upon considerations of future Soviet security and peace, and on nothing else.

But what is the alternative if the present deadlock continues until Russian forces are on uncontested Polish soil?

King's Foreign Policy Unopposed

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

For the record it should be noted that no political party in Canada has questioned the foreign policy laid down for Canada by Mr. King in London.

The prime minister has been home for some weeks now, since he committed this country absolutely to the principle of world organization and collective security, and against a British Commonwealth block operating in a new balance-of-power.

Before Mr. King went to London some Conservative Party leaders attacked him. Mr. Howard Green, the most violent, asserted that Mr. King was trying to make this a small nation tied to the apron strings of the United States, whereas the policy of the Conservative Party was to follow the Titan theory of Lord Halifax, by Britain's side. Mr. Bracken issued a wordy statement which, on examination, turned out to be an endorsement of Mr. King's policy. In Parliament the leaderless Conservative Party said nothing. But as Mr. Bracken had made clear in his statement of last January, after the Halifax speech, the party would wait until Mr. King had revealed his views at the London conference. Those views having been revealed in the frankest possible fashion, the Canadian people have the right to expect all objectors to voice their objections now. None has been voiced by any politician.

After all the frenzy of last spring, after the bitter attacks on Mr. King by the Tory press, after the Vancouver Province's frantic announcement that Canada was behaving like a spoiled child, now, behold, Mr. King has taken his stand at London and no politician in Parliament can find anything wrong with it.

The only organ which carries forward the controversy which Mr. King obviously has won is The Globe and Mail, and it is compelled to turn the truth upside down and inside out to prove its point. Unable to persuade its party and Mr. Bracken that Mr. King is wrong, The Globe and Mail has executed a flanking manoeuvre and announces that Mr. King is right because he has finally adopted The Globe and Mail policy.

The amazing discovery in the editorial offices of Mr. George McCullagh deserves to be considered.

It's Eating That Does It!

From the Brantford Expositor
At last science has caught up on the stout citizen who, with a pretended air of martyrdom, explains that his (or her) excess poundage is the result of some obscure "glandular condition," and that, in reality, his (or her) appetite is unbelievably small.

"Unbelievably" is the right word. Everybody knows some weighty friends or relatives who protest thus. And everybody knows that the individuals affected are just a bit disposed to eat more of fattening foods than is conducive to a small waist-line. True, these folk may exercise with a zeal deserving of an even better objective. True, also, they may go on strenuous "diets." But, with few exceptions, the obdurate skeptic will note that these fastings are periodic and spaced out by frequent lapses into hearty table manners.

However, getting back to the scientific angle, the American Medical Association has been told by a distinguished researcher, Dr. Henry B. Richardson, of Cornell University, that the "gland" alibi for avoirdupois is mostly humbug. In the majority of cases of obesity, he finds, there is no indication of gland defect, there is no consistent disturbance in basal metabolism, sugar tolerance, or specific dynamic action.

This is a devious and diplomatic way of saying that people get fat because they eat too much. A humiliating thought? Maybe, but an honest one! Besides, most people know it all right. The real form of reducing exercise is still that in which the reducer pushes himself or herself firmly away from the table.

Of course, there are thousands of jovial and weighty souls who delight in their shape and bulk. Regarding a slimmer neighbor, their chortle "Yon Cassius hath a lean and hungry look!" Fat folk are often, and even usually, jolly and good tempered. The world can stand a lot more of those qualities. The fellow who candidly confesses that he got his girth by reason of being an expert trencherman earns that no reproach. But the individual who, enjoying a hearty appetite, tries to excuse the result by blaming it on some mysterious physiological factors, stands in need of scoffing rebuke.

Sympathy

THE NEW YORKER

Strange fancies come to lonely men sitting in bars late at night. We know of one, for instance, who decided to call up his estranged wife, out on Long Island, just to tell her that there were no hard feelings. It turned out, however, that there were some hard feelings, and the lady's recital of them took so much time that the operator was forced to cut in with her "Your five minutes are up. Signal when through, please." When his wife had finally hung up, the man signalled the operator and asked what he owed on the extra time. "Oh, let it go," she sighed. "I couldn't charge you for a call like that."

District News in Brief

Andrew Cadets At Sarscey Camp

ANDREW.—The cadet corps consisting of 23 cadets has left for Sarscey where they will take two weeks military training. It is the third consecutive year in which the corps has gone to camp. This year the boys are under the supervision of G. Topolnicki, part of the time, while Lt. E. Carey will take charge the remainder of the time. The platoon consists of Lt. E. Carey, Sgt. G. Greff, Cpl. M. Achymichuk, Cpl. G. Oystrek, and Cpl. B. Syrolok; L. Cpl. J. Cardinal, H. Yaroslowsky, M. Zebreck and Ples. A. Andriuk, M. Bugiak, E. Eganowich, E. Hamaliuk, P. Hamaliuk, G. Kostinuk, E. Moisey, P. Palamarchuk, William Shopik, S. Tymchuk, P. Worobets, E. Zahari, M. Zelisko, M. Zukowski, and N. Frunchak.

A farewell party was held for Mrs. E. Kotyk who is leaving the Andrew teaching staff and is going to Wainwright where her husband Pte. N. Kotyk is stationed. The teaching staff of the Andrew school held a semi-formal dance. Charles Bordin, local farmer and Kate Taasiuk were married here.

Gleaned From Rural News

TOFIELD.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Morton, old time residents of this district, have sold their residence to Mr. Bennett of the C.N.R. and will live in Edmonton for the winter. A dance was held at the Lindbrook Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Appleby who were married recently. Mr. and Mrs. P. Penner and son, Vernon, are visiting at Vernon, B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Lee and family are holidaying at Banff as are Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Robinson and daughter, Bernice.

VERMILION.—The B.P.O.E. lodge held a tag day and netted $143 for kiddies' treats. An Army softball team from Wainwright defeated the Vermilion team, on the Vermilion grounds, Sunday. The agricultural fair board is painting the buildings on the grounds in readiness for opening on July 27. The annual meeting of the Gospel Hall adherents is being held on Sunday and Monday. Several hundred are expected to attend.

LOYDMINSTER.—The office of the secretary-manager of the Lloydminster exhibition is being flooded with entries in all classes in the fair. The exhibition is to be held July 24, 25 and 26. The directors have spared no expense to make this exhibition better than any in previous years. Because of farm labor shortage a large entry list is not expected in the livestock classes, but every indication points to a well-balanced show. An agricultural phase of the fair has always been chief among the attractions

Candidate

Ira D. Taylor, C.C.F. nominee for the Ponoka constituency in the forthcoming provincial election. He is a farmer of the Rimbey district. Before settling at Rimbey he farmed in the Big Valley district, where he was active in school, community and municipal affairs. He is the father of nine children, five sons and four daughters. He is president of the Ponoka district C.C.F. organization.

and this year will be no exception. There is to be a girl's camp this year as well as a boys' camp.

MCLENNAN.—Mrs. C. Lawrence and Mrs. H. Chausse have gone to Regina as delegates to attend the Royal Purple convention. Mr. and Mrs. L. Krittman and family and Miss Phyllis Cote have gone to Edmonton on a holiday. Mr. and Mrs. M. Stehelin and family are away on holidays. Miss M. Culbert and Miss C. McKay of the public school staff have left for their summer vacation. Mrs. C. Kirkland and daughter Patsy are visiting here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hansen. Mrs. T. Lyman and family are holidaying in Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown have left on their holidays. Miss Doris Jean Connery has gone to attend camp at Sylvan Lake.

GRANDE PRAIRIE.—A greenhouse and market garden is one of the town's newest and most flourishing industries. Owned and operated by W. Mark, proprietor of the Donald cafe, the greenhouse is now supplying tomatoes to the local trade. Formerly tomatoes had to be shipped from southern, B.C. The greenhouse is L-shaped, one side being 100 feet by 26 feet and the other 70 feet by 36 feet. The entire area is glass roofed. About 1,100 tomato plants grow here. The four-acre garden has everything that can be grown in this climate. Cabbage, cauliflower, turnips, onions, celery, lettuce, carrots and cucumbers are some of the vegetables being sold. The garden is irrigated by an electric pump located at a dam which was built across nearby Bear Creek.

Officer Is Posted To Wetaskiwin

WETASKIWIN.—Mrs. R. H. Jenkins and family have arrived from Medicine Hat to make their home here. Captain Jenkins is on duty at the military centre here. Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop are spending two weeks at Banff. Mrs. E. C. Compton had as her guest for the last week Mrs. Walter Scott. E. E. Sears left Edmonton by plane for a visit with relatives and friends at Los Angeles. The Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Appelt and family are spending July and August at Ma-Me-O Beach. Mrs. O. Cornelius is a visitor from Calgary. Mrs. John Scofield has returned from a visit in various points in the East. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Chapman left for Vancouver to be guests of their daughter and son-in-law. Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Wilson. Mrs. L. B. Crapper, Edmonton, and Miss Joan Crapper, Regina, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Draayer. Moore Osborne, Kerrobert, has been guest of his sister, Mrs. Jack Short and Mr. Short. Joy Pearson is attending the Pentecostal camp at Sylvan Lake. Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Manley and their guests, the former's sisters, the Misses Manley are holidaying at Banff.

Miss Mary Barbara Mason, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Mason, Edmonton, who has been on the local teaching staff, was guest of honor when Mrs. Kurt Smith, Mrs. James Montgomery, Mrs. Lee O. Kelly, Miss Phyllis Woods and Miss Peggy Caven were hostesses at a shower. Miss Mason will be married to Donald Lazerte, son of Dr. and Mrs. M. E. Lazerte of Edmonton, on Saturday evening at All Saints' Cathedral.

Athabasca School Staff Will Change

ATHABASCA.—Friday morning school let out for the last day of this term. The school staff will be quite different next year. Miss Waliki, Grade 9 teacher, will be in Edmonton, and the others are not definite about their future whereabouts.

J. D. Galloway was in Edmonton for two days attending the Alberta Livestock Co-operation convention. At a birthday party for Donny Lewis to celebrate his ninth birthday, 16 of his playmates were in attendance.

A tea was held in honor of Mrs. Fred Bachelor who, with her husband and two daughters, Eleanor and Jean, is going to live in Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Taylor are visiting with Mrs. Taylor's sister-in-law, Mrs. Sarah Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. H. Sparby spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. W. Hodgson. Mr. Sparby was the former school inspector for the Athabasca school district.

located at a dam which was built across nearby Bear Creek.

PRIVATE BUCK

"The show's been called off, Buck. We're going on a raid tonight!"

Air Force Wedding Held at Hardisty

HARDISTY.—An air force wedding of interest to people of this district was solemnized in the St. John the Divine Anglican church, Vancouver, when LAW, Esther Johnson, W.D. R.C.A.F. became the bride of LAC Robert Collins Crocker of Hardisty. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. P. Disney, a former minister here. After a honeymoon the bride and bridegroom will return to their respective stations at Lethbridge and Macleod.

Marion Johnson, Phyllis Terry, Maxine Bronson, Colleen Moody and Inez Terry are leaving Saturday for the C.G.I.T. camp at Gull Lake. Mrs. M. Gorley has gone to Indiana to visit her daughter. She will go to California from there and may make her home with her youngest daughter. Before she left her friends gave her a farewell party at the home of her sister-in-law.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Blue had as their guest, their daughters, Mrs. J. Storey of Sutherland, and Mrs. and Mrs. G. Smith of Edmonton. Mrs. R. Mills, Miss Fawn Mills and Dorothy Sullivan are visiting Mrs. George Mills here. Mary Spencer, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer has gone to Vancouver to visit her sister, Mrs. C. Reeves. The bus driver whose bus got stuck in the mud near Daysland, had to transport the passengers into town by car. Mrs. Jenny Larson motored from Luceland, Sask., to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar J. Larson. Mr. and Mrs. H. Moody had a pleasant surprise on her birthday, when a

Didsbury District Is Struck by Hail

DIDSBURY.—Hail struck this district three times this week, on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. On Wednesday half an inch of rain fell in 20 minutes. West of town the heaviest damage, estimated at 35 per cent, was done. Delegates attending the A.C.F. convention from here were Walter Scheidt, C. H. Dickau, John Leisner, Raymond Bell, farmer of Carstairs was nominated candidate for the Didsbury provincial constituency.

The second year in succession Didsbury Squadron, No. 197 Air Cadets of Canada, has won the efficiency shield for the north half of the province. Pte. L. A. W. Reiber has commanded the squadron from the beginning.

Other officers are P.O. Ed Wiggins and P.O. D. Muir. Seven of the cadets leave this year as they have become of military age. They are Pte. Sgt. Clarence Johnson, who has joined the navy; Sgt. Frank Heley, Sgt. Glen Holman, Sgt. Roy Reiffenstein who has also joined the navy; Sgt. Robert Youngs, now with the R.C.A.F.; LAC. Erhart Rinehart, and LAC. Alan Chandler.

World Freedom Of Press Said Need For Peace

CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP)—Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico said last night he would sponsor a clear-cut Democratic platform declaration for a worldwide free press as "a guarantee against future wars."

Hatch, a member of the party's platform drafting committee, gave his full endorsement to the principles embodied in a proposed plank submitted by Kent Cooper, executive director and general manager of The Associated Press. Appearing in response to an invitation to discuss a possible declaration, Cooper suggested the following:

BETTER UNDERSTANDING
"A guarantee against future wars is a better understanding among nations. The unhindered interchange of independent news can beget such understanding."

"Therefore, we declare for peace treaty provisions proclaiming world-wide the right of all men to get, send and publish the news for the information of the public—without interference by governments and at uniform communications rates. In our country, we insist that censorship shall end when the war ends."

Cooper was consulted similarly by Republican platform drafters at that party's convention here in June.

The Republican platform's declaration for a world free press declared that all channels of news "must be kept open with equality of access to information at the source" and that if "agreement can be achieved with foreign nations to establish the same principles, it will be a valuable contribution to future peace."

PLAN CONFERENCE
Britain and the United States are planning a conference at Washington next fall on international communications and news exchange.

Whatever agreements are worked out could be extended to other nations as they become interested.

Some diplomatic officials have talked about seeking an international agreement guaranteeing reporters free and equal access to the news in all countries and the right to transmit their information at rates fair to all. Such an agreement may be discussed, at least informally, at the fall conference.

Winners of Gyro Awards Announced

WINNIPEG, July 18.—(CP)—Ernest Holtzworth of Buffalo, N.Y., received the honor key award at the International Gyro conference which ended here during the week-end. It was announced yesterday. Winners of other awards were: Bulletin award, Kelson, B.C.; Gyro club, attendance award, class A, Calgary, class B, Kamloops, B.C.; internal extension award, Canton, O.; external extension award, Buffalo, N.Y.

No Proxy Voting In New Brunswick

SAINT JOHN, N.B., July 18.—(CP)—Dr. J. Miles Gibson, special returning officer for active service elections in the New Brunswick election Aug. 28, said last night there would be no proxy voting by men and women in the armed forces. New Brunswick members of the services in the province, in Canada and outside of Canada will cast ballots for candidates in their home constituencies. These results will be added to the civilian vote. In some theatres of war the voting date may have to be deferred.

With Those In Uniform

MCLENNAN.—Pte. Fred Flavell has returned home from active service overseas. He has been honorably discharged for medical reasons. Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. A. Lafleur that their son, Pte. G. Lafleur, has been wounded overseas.

FAIRVIEW.—Mrs. W. A. Garner received a wire from Ottawa informing her that her husband, Cpl. W. A. Garner, had died in France on July 1. Cpl. Garner was one of the first groups of boys to enlist from here in 1940, signing up with an Edmonton regiment. He was 20 years old when he joined up. He is survived by his wife and one child, now living at Ferintosh. His mother and father live at Chatham, Ont. He has one brother overseas and two brothers and three sisters at home.

HARDISTY.—Mr. and Mrs. William Spencer have just received word that their eldest son, Gur, William Spencer of the anti-aircraft, has been seriously wounded and is in a hospital in England. Mr. and Mrs. Bud Patterson, R.C.A.F., are visiting in this district this week. LAW, Verda Miller has returned to her station at Calgary. Robert Bell has been home from Rivers, Man., on a 48-hour pass.

ATHABASCA.—"Shorty" Henry Gebert arrived home Thursday night from Calgary where he received his discharge papers. Buster Bisset and Ralph Bisset are home on leave.

WETASKIWIN.—ASO. Norma Bennett, air force headquarters, Ottawa, has been a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nelson. Keith Groves, of the local Sea Cadets, has left to take a position at Champion.

TOFIELD.—PO and Mrs. Hugh McCall from Edmonton are visiting at the home of C. Coombs and Mrs. E. McMulica.

Haven't you ever talked over the back fence?

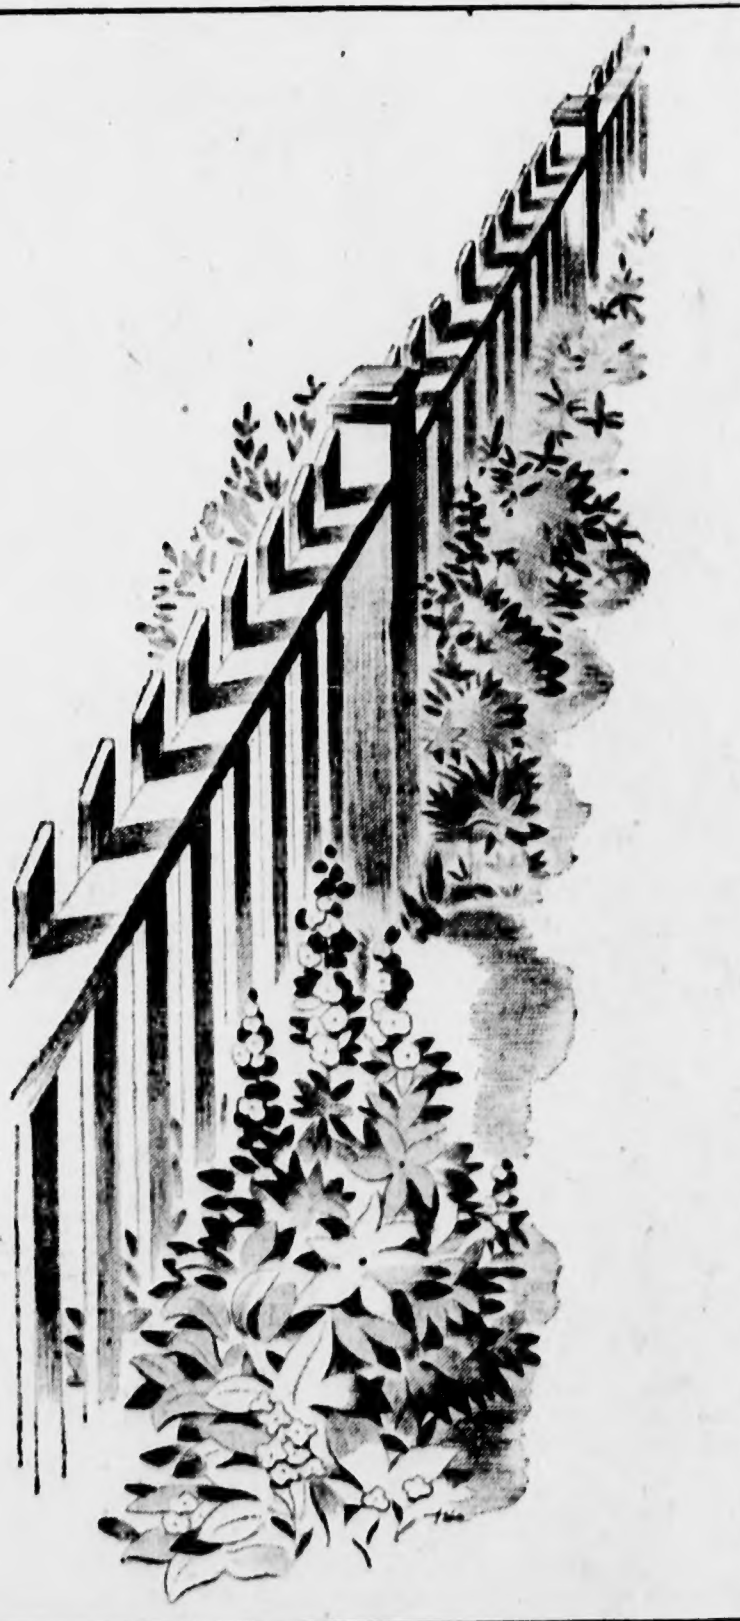

MAYBE you have a neighbour who doesn't know what it's all about when it comes to raising cucumbers. Or perhaps he hasn't a knack with roses. So you tell him what spray to get, or you give him a little lesson in pruning. And next thing you know he says: "I'm certainly sold on that advice you gave me."

And that's how progress comes about. A fellow comes along who knows more than you do about life insurance, for instance, and first thing you know you see a way to protect yourself and your wife and the kiddies, a plan you might never have thought of, yet it seems easy once you start.

If there were no salesmen, hundreds of thousands of people now insured would be without the security they enjoy. So many people put off till tomorrow what they should do today—so many neglect provision for the future. That is why the helpful neighbours who sell life insurance have become such great instruments in the promotion of thrift.

Harry Teare Wins Lacombe's Annual Golf Tournament

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin.
LACOMBE, July 18.—Two of the best golfers in central Alberta matched their skill in the final of the championship flight of the Lacombe annual open golf tournament Sunday, and when two extra holes had been played, Harry Teare of Lacombe emerged as the winner over Joe Welsh of Red Deer.

They finished all square in the regulation nine holes and the veteran Red Deer golfer lost the match when Teare holed out in par four on the second extra hole. Welsh's fourth shot was short.

Seventy-three golfers entered the tournament and Vera Mohs of Edmonton shot a scintillating par 36 to lead them all in the qualifying round. President E. W. Burrows and Secretary G. T. Jackson of the Lacombe Golf Club were kept busy throughout the day and both were well pleased with the grand turnout and the splendid weather which prevailed.

Winners of the various flights were:
Championship Flight—Harry Teare of Lacombe, def. Joe Welsh of Red Deer, 2-1.
Consolation—H. Poonock of Lacombe, def. C. Willis, Stettin.

First flight—P. L. Smith, Rimbey, def. W. E. Kemp, Olds. Consolation—H. Gooder, Olds, def. B. W. Burrows, Lacombe.

Second flight—W. Scott, Innisfail, def. H. Henderson, Lacombe. Consolation—L. Leclair, Edmonton, def. V. Holmes, Olds.

Third flight—Bob Rankin, Olds, def. Sgt. N. Reid, Red Deer. Consolation—G. Laurie, Olds, def. T. Forhan, Eckville.

Fourth flight—M. Bures, Ponoka, def. H. Oberg, Alt. Consolation—R. Jones, Red Deer, def. A. E. Williamson, Bowden.

Fifth flight—Ned McMullen, Lacombe, def. G. Kaiser, Olds. Consolation—J. R. Stubbs, Banana, def. R. Hughes, Ponoka.

Sixth flight—C. Sturgeon, Olds, def. S. Mathers, Mirror, Consolation—L. W. Bouslog, Jr., Musson, def. D. Caldwell, Red Deer.

Seventh flight—G. Brooks, Lacombe, def. G. England, Red Deer. Consolation—J. R. Stubbs, Banana, def. R. Hughes, Ponoka.

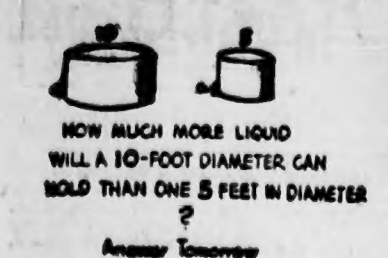

Eighth flight—Wes Jackson, Lacombe, def. E. McCall, Consolation—M. Doherty, Morrin, def. D. Stuart, Calgary.

Tenth Straight For Twilight Tear
CHICAGO, July 18.—(AP)—Calumet Farm's little filly, Twilight Tear, ran to her 10th straight victory Monday before a ladies' day crowd of 17,500 at Washington Park, taking a length win over Pennine, the Derby—Peaks champion, with an official mile of 1:36.1/2.

Five horses originally were named for the race, worth $5,000 in added money. When Dogone was scratched, the management decided to run the event without waging.

The victory, increased Twilight Tear's total winnings in two years over the $100,000 mark.

Lawn Bowling
VANCOUVER, July 18.—(CP)—Danny McCormack's Calgary rink tied for first place in section four of the open rink competition at the 22nd annual British Columbia Lawn Bowling Association tournament which opened here Monday. Play will continue through today and Wednesday.

NEW YORK, July 18.—Hershel Ray Martin—a big, brown haired Missouri farmer—already has done a grand job of sparking the New York Yankees out of their doldrums, regardless of any additional ignition which may result from Frank Crossetti's joining the Yanks at St. Louis tomorrow.

It was a great break for the pennant defenders, as well as for 34-year-old Martin, when he reported to the New Yorks at Philadelphia on June 23 and immediately took over the left field post. His acquisition from the Milwaukee Brewers for outfielder Ed Levy and a certain amount of cash proved to be one of Joe McCarthy's luckiest deals.

Veteran Martin steadied the outfield with his flawless ball hawking, and he inspired the batsmen with his hitting. He brought new life to a club that was in second division—a club that only the week before had finished one of the most disastrous road trips in Yankee history, losing 14 of 17 games.

YANKES WON 15 OF 22
SINCE the dairy farmer from Vienna, Mo., took over the Yanks' left pasture, where Levy and Larry Rosenthal previously had cavorted, the McCarthy-men have won 15 of 22 games. Paced by Martin's 358 hitting, the club's batting gathered momentum until in their last couple of appearances against the Boston Red Sox, they re-kindled memories of "murderers' row."

Since big Martin joined up they have blasted out 20 home runs in 22 games. Martin contributed one of a quartet of four baggers Sunday, and two of three round trippers on Saturday. He was the first Yank to hit two homers in one game this season. He contributed one previous circuit smash on July 4.

The second place Yanks belted over the Red Sox, 7-1, Sunday in the first game of a doubleheader. The nightcap was washed out by a thunderstorm. Limited to one victory by the weather, the Yanks wound up two games behind the leading St. Louis Browns, who won both ends of a twin bill from Cleveland. However, the "Martin Bombers" who took off for St. Louis Monday for their "crucial series" with the Browns are a far different outfit from that which staggered through the west in June. They're vowing to wrest the lead from the Browns in their home park—and to hold it.

FIRST REAL BREAK
MARTIN, a slow spoken, dead serious chap who stands six feet two and who weighs 190 pounds, says, "My chance with the Yanks is the first real break I ever had in baseball, and I intend to make the most of it." This is his 12th season in organized ball. He had a four-year whirl with the Phillies from 1937 through '40 but the rest of the time he's been languishing in the minors.

He made the National League All Star squad in '38, his previous peak. With Milwaukee last season, he hit .307; but he changed to a looser batting grip this year and was hitting .360 when the Yanks grabbed him. He thinks Milwaukee is "one swell town". Despite his big chance with the Yanks he was "rather sorry to leave" the brewery city.

Martin is a right handed switch hitter. And you might call him a business man—a pharmaceutical farmer—because he recently purchased a durgstore in St. Louis.

TORONTO, July 18.—(CP)—The fast tempo of modern life on the baseball diamond is bewildering to the uninitiated who harks back to pre-war days when the professional ranks were as hard to crash as a very posh bootlegger's establishment. Now it's getting so some of the teams look like high school squads.

Extensive experience isn't required of the would-be matriculate either, as long as they can take a cut at the ball and wing the pellet around the field. Last example of this rag-to-riches theory is 18-year-old Reg Clarkson of Vancouver.

Reg played his first baseball only last summer, but he caught on so fast Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast loop signed him for a tryout next spring. Scout Bob Brown of Rainiers reported Clarkson was still green, but he can hit and throw and is fast, so he stands a good chance of sticking with the Seattlites.

INCIDENTALLY:
The claiming war at west coast race tracks has become so spirited that an owner never knows from one day to the next what his stable will consist of. Things reached such a pass, Alf (Vancouver Sun) Cottrell reports, that Ritchie Munro entered Bill G. and seven claims were filed by rival horse owners before they discovered Munro had entered the stable goat and mascot as a joke.

Man the first aid kit, Jean Pusie is back in the lacrosse brawl with Valleyfield in the Quebec League. There'll never be a dull moment.

Pirates Win

HORNELL, N.Y., July 18.—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates had an easy workout against their pony league farm club, the Hornell Pirates, Monday when they trounced the home team 20-5 in an exhibition game.

A's Triumph

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 18.—(AP)—Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics trounced the Middletown Air Service Command team, 14-4 in a game halted after eight innings to permit the major leaguers to catch a train.

Greco Wins

NEWARK, N.J., July 18.—(AP)—Johnny Greco, 150, Montreal slugger, won a clean-cut decision last night over Joe Matone, 150, of Brooklyn in the main bout at Meadowbrook Bowl.

During the off seasons, he will switch his attentions back and forth between Vienna milk cows and St. Louis milk shakes.

Sandlot Fastball Games Continue At Diamond Park

Two games were played in the midjet division and one in the juvenile section of the city sandlot softball tournament at Diamond Park on Monday night.

Canadian midjets defeated Central Aces 12-3. Brown to Lepine and Simovitch to Ferguson were the two batteries.

Maple Leafs won from Dodgers 6-5, the respective batteries being Stocks to Brown and Clarke to Harris. Ritchie defaulted to Rossdale.

In the juvenile division, Rossdale beat Cloverdale 11-8. Cardinals won by default from A.Z.A.

Two games are scheduled for tonight. Mountglen "Y" midjets play Seona Centre at 7 o'clock and Canadians go against Maple Leafs at 8, in the midjet section.

On Wednesday, Victoria juveniles play South Side Athletics and Cardinals meet Tuxis.

Bookmakers' Biggest Bettor Started Out With Only $75

By NED BROWN

EDWARD GEORGE BURKE was the biggest bettor among the bookmakers when that form of wagering passed out at New York tracks in 1939. Ed Burke would bet or lay and go broke, which he did in 1937, when he had to quit long enough to hustle a bankroll.

Burke, 47, a native of Brooklyn resembling Jimmy Cagney of the screen, is 35 pounds heavier than when he played forward for the famous New York Celtics with such renowned teammates as Nat Holman, Horse Haggerty, Barry and Meckman. That brings him in at 180 pounds.

While playing basketball, which he did superlatively until 1928, Burke was employed in the old New York curb market and clerked in New Jersey poolrooms.

Always a splendid card player, he had a flair for percentage from the start. You can still get him as a fourth hand most any evening at the New York A. C.

Burke first came to the races in 1928 with $75 in his pocket. He ran this into enough to open a book under the grandstands of New York tracks... later he moved into the clubhouses. He owned two or three stables under different names, knew when his runners were ready and the strength of the opposition.

BURKE QUILTS WITH BOOKS
Burke played his own figures. Clockers taught horses in the morning, timed races for future reference. His men took pictures, figured a length a fifth of a second. "Modern methods have brought handicapping to a fine art," he explains, "but there are still several schools of thought." His idea of a good speed chart handicapper is Buzzy Appleton of Boston. Appleton, 35 now and operating in New York, chuckles it in.

Like all bookmakers and important bettors, Burke can't see the mutuels except for the income derived by the state. He rarely has attended in New York since their advent, practically confines his race-going to a vacation period in Florida.

"The best tip on the machines was that before they were legalized in New York operators of the larger mutual tracks did their betting in New York," he stresses.

"Charles McCullough, Warren Wright and John D. Hertz of Arlington Park; Eddie Burke, no relation of mine but an old bookmaker more recently associated with Havre de Grace; Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt of Pimlico and Dr. Charles H. Strub and Hal E. Roach of Santa Anita liked to bet the books in New York."

NO BOOKMAKERS TO BEAT

"They would not bet sizeably at their own tracks, for in doing so they would knock down the prices on the horses of their selection. In New York they could shop for a price. When they were given one, that was the price at post-time, regardless of what it might have dropped to after they got down. "Mutuels leave the player who

Ed Burke played his own figures.

Two Disqualified In Golf Tourney

PETERBOROUGH, Ont., July 18.

(CP)—Bill Ezinicki, Winnipeg and Oshawa, Ont., hockey and golf star, Sunday disqualified himself and Hugh Borthwick of Toronto from further play in the Kawartha Lakes invitation golf tournament here by playing the wrong ball during the third round of the 34-hole competition.

Ezinicki, now in the Royal Canadian Air Force, chipped to the sixth green with what he thought was his ball and then Borthwick played Ezinicki's ball. The error was discovered when the balls were retrieved from the cup and reported to tournament officials. The error and disqualification of both, however, did nothing to hamper the efforts of Bob Burns of Weston, Ont., who was playing with Ezinicki and Borthwick and who went on to win the tournament with 213.

Fastball Playoffs Commence Tonight

The senior men's provincial fastball playoffs start tonight at Kingsway Park when the U.S.A.A.F. Officers meet the Central-Aeroliners and H.M.C.S. Nonsuch takes on the U.S. Enlisted Men. The first game starts at 6:45 o'clock.

makes a study of the business no better off than the shop girl who simply sticks a pin in the program. The player has to take the price established by the public. He has no choice. The more he bets the less he gets, for large sums find their way into the machines."

Ed Burke was one of the last of the plungers, for the very good reason that bookmakers no longer are in a position where they have to run the risk of being beaten for large amounts. In other words, there are no bookmakers to beat.

Japanese Who Voted in 1938
Get Vote in Next Election

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—Right of Japanese in Canada to vote in the next general election became the subject of a vigorous debate Monday in the Commons after the government introduced an amendment to its Election Act bill.

The amendment gave Japanese who were entitled to vote previously a ballot in the next election, but deprived all others of the franchise.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said the step the government was taking would ensure conditions remaining as they were previously. Without the section racial favoritism would be shown through granting the franchise to the Japanese who during the war had moved from British Columbia to other provinces. Japanese in British Columbia are not allowed to vote. Had the section not been inserted in the bill Japanese who had moved from British Columbia, where they are not allowed to vote, would have gained the franchise by changing their residence. The British Columbia ban applies to all Japanese, including Canadian-born persons of Japanese racial origin and naturalized Japanese. Japanese in other provinces come under the regulations which apply generally in a federal election. Those 21 years of age and British subjects have a vote.

MIGHT CAUSE RIOTS

As it originally stood the section would, however, take the vote away from Japanese in other provinces who, in the 1941 census, numbered 1,000. Granting the franchise to Japanese generally might result in riots on election day and with this in view the Japanese had not been allowed to vote in the manpower plebiscite.

C.C.F. members opposed the section as racial discrimination and Clarence Gillis (C.C.F.—Cape Breton South) introduced an amendment to delay application of the section until after the next election, leaving the way open for consideration at the next session. The amendment was ruled out of order.

J. W. Noseworthy (C.C.F.—York South) said the bill had been introduced originally by a responsible minister and presumably had been considered in cabinet. A Senate amendment sent it back to the Commons and there was a storm of protest. An effort now was being made to patch things up.

"I am doubtful how much credit the people will give the Liberal government for bringing this question up again," he said.

Arthur Roebuck (L.—Toronto-Trinity) said the government was to be congratulated on the amendment but it did not satisfy him.

When the bill was first considered and passed by the Commons the section applying to the Japanese provided that if any province had or passed legislation depriving persons of an enemy racial origin from voting such a restriction should apply through Canada. When the bill—which is primarily intended to provide for taking the overseas vote—reached the Senate it was amended to limit the racial restriction to legislation already in effect. This limited it to the British Columbia legislation which bars the Japanese from voting.

NOT EXTENDING VOTE

In introducing the amendment State Secretary McLarty said the provision had aroused considerable discussion. The step the government now was taking would not deprive anyone who had a franchise in the last election of a vote. He said he did not think it was generally regarded as timely to extend the vote to Japanese who did not previously enjoy it.

Clarence Gillis (C.C.F.—Cape Breton South) said the house made a mistake when the bill was passed and should correct it. Mr. McLarty's amendment did not correct it. The bill was given second reading before members saw it in print and would not have passed if they knew its full implications.

"We are still practising racial discrimination with respect to the franchise," said Mr. Gillis.

Canada was a country made up of minority groups. While the Japanese at war with Canada had committed atrocities that was no reason why Canadians should do the same thing. No one suggested the German people of Canada be disfranchised.

OBJECTS TO BAR

Mr. McLarty asked if Mr. Gillis advocated the extension of the franchise to Japanese at this time. Mr. Gillis said he objected to extension of the bar against Japanese voting outside the province of British Columbia.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King asked Mr. Gillis to say whether he wished to give a vote to Japanese who had no vote before the war. The vote was to be given to people who would not have had it if they remained in British Columbia and they were moved out of British Columbia only for urgent reasons of security arising from the war.

Mr. Gillis said that was exactly what he was doing.

"I believe that any citizen of Canada should have a citizen's rights and particularly so if he has been born in Canada," said Mr. Gillis.

OFFICIAL PARTY STAND

"Is that official for the party or that your personal opinion?"

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

asked George Cruickshank (L.—Fraser Valley).

"That's official for the party," said Mr. Gillis.

Mr. Gillis said he served with Japanese soldiers from British Columbia in the last war. They were good fighters. Many of the Japanese in Canada entered at or before that time.

Japanese were serving in the American army in Italy. Japanese-Americans were our allies today. Many had won decorations. "Make no mistake about it," he said, "when you start interfering with the liberties of any one class of people the time is coming when you are going to interfere with all."

RULED OUT OF ORDER

Mr. Gillis proposed another amendment to make the clause in question inoperative at the next election. He said it was too late to clear the question up properly. The only thing to do was to leave matters as they were until the next session or the next parliament.

The speaker ruled the amendment out of order.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.—Winnipeg North Centre) described the action the government was taking as "violation of the basic traditions of Liberalism." He quoted from a 1920 publication of the national Liberal party on that organization's position opposing the depriving of any race of the franchise and said Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1917 had opposed a somewhat similar bill. Few members of the house had been aware of the section when the bill passed the Commons and an error which had been made at that time to prevent parliament exercising racial discrimination.

The government's amendment, sponsored by State Secretary McLarty, was finally accepted without a recorded vote.

The House also gave second and third readings to a bill providing for salaries of three proposed new ministers for the departments of veterans' affairs, national health and welfare and reconstruction.

After Six Weeks

Front Line in Normandy

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, July 18.—(CP)—Unofficially this was the approximate front line yesterday as the battle of Normandy completed its sixth week.

From the Normandy coast at a point east of the Orne river mouth south to a point about three miles east of Caen, thence west to the Orne river at Caen, and thence southwest about nine miles, to the outskirts of Evreux.

From there it runs northwest six miles through Bougy and Noyers to Vendres; thence almost due east to a point north of Hottot Les Bagues; thence nine miles southwest to Caumont.

From Caumont it runs eight miles slightly north of west to Berigny; thence southwest 3½ miles to La Barre De Semilly; thence northwest to the eastern outskirts of St. Lo; thence northeast two miles; thence due west to a point north of St. Lo; thence northwest, and then west to Le Mesnil Durand.

From there it runs north to a point just west of Pont Hebert; then southwest through La Tiboterie to within a mile of the Periers-St. Lo road; thence north through Remilly Sur Lozon to the vicinity of Es-Aubus; thence about six miles northwest to Nay; thence southwest to Les Milleries; thence northwest to the vicinity of St. Patrice De Clais.

From there it runs due west to the sea at the mouth of the river Noy, passing just north of Lessay.

POST-WAR
RECONSTRUCTION

What is PRIVATE ENTERPRISE?

It is the natural desire to make your own way, as far as your ability will take you, an instinct that has brought to this continent the highest standard of life enjoyed by any people on earth. It is the spirit of democracy on the march...

INTEGRITY, experience and business capacity must be given full opportunity to contribute to post-war reconstruction. These qualities are fully as important to the bank in considering applications for loans as are the material resources of borrowers. Indeed, when possessed in high degree, these personal factors often weigh more with the bank than other considerations.

It will be the policy of The Royal Bank of Canada to extend liberal financial assistance to promising business undertakings, whether large or small, new or old, when under reliable management.

THE QUESTION
What is your opinion of the Dominion government regulations drafted with a view to encouraging northern oil development?

THE ANSWERS
HARVEY AGNEW, clerk: It is most important that the Dominion find and develop new oil resources. The known fields cannot be expected to last forever, and more development is required. Any assistance that can be given will be advantageous.

FRANCES MCSWAIN, stenographer: We have learned in the last two years, even if we never knew before, that there is a vast potential oil reserve in the north land that awaits development. It is appropriate that encouragement in developing this reserve should be given now.

BILL GORMAN, trucker: There is no doubt that the time is opportune for some such action. It is evident that more oil is going to be required and this is a good time to start looking for it.

Hockey Player Killed Overseas

L-Cpl. Mark Maveety, prominent hockey and baseball player, has been reported killed in action July 8, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Maveety, 9936 116 street. It is believed he was killed in the fierce hand-to-hand fighting near Caen.

Well known for his prominence in hockey and baseball, both in the city and the Dominion, Cpl. Maveety enlisted with an anti-tank unit in Montreal early in 1941. He went overseas the latter part of the same year and remained with his unit until just prior to the invasion. Shortly before D-Day he transferred to the Regina Rifles Regiment in order to take part in the thrust on the Continent.

The 29-year-old soldier attended Westmount and Victoria high schools here and was a member of Robertson United church. In addition to his parents he is survived by a younger brother, Douglas, and one sister, Beth.

Children's Shelter Vacant on Aug. 16

Occupancy of the children's shelter, now under lease to the United States government, will be given to the city on Aug. 16 next under the terms of a lease termination received on Tuesday from the United States government by the city commissioners Tuesday.

Mayor John W. Fry said that Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect, is drawing plans for the conversion of the structure into suites. Work on the conversion will start immediately after the building is returned to the city.

Asked if huts adjacent to the children's shelter would be purchased by the city, Mayor Fry said that these structures could not be usefully converted to dwellings. He added that negotiations are still continuing between civic, United States and Dominion authorities for the purchase of huts at the U.S.A. Camp 550.

Labor Council Protests Stop Of Homo Milk

Elimination of "homo" milk was protested at a meeting of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council held Monday night at the Labor Hall. Delegates expressed opinion that steps could have been taken by the War Time Prices and Trade Board that would more efficiently save butter fat than did the abolition of homogenized milk.

It was reported that sales of milk had decreased sharply and that there had been an increase in the amount of 10 per cent milk sold and also in cream sales. Also reported was the fact that children who had been drinking the "homo" milk were refusing to drink the regular milk now being supplied.

Members of the building trades, through the carpenters' union, submitted a series of recommendations in relation to home building dealing with proper basement rooms, fire-prevention and other matters. Further suggestions will be made at a future meeting.

Low Re-Endorsed As S.C. Candidate

Hon. Solon E. Low, national leader of the Social Credit party and provincial treasurer and minister of education in Alberta, was re-endorsed as Social Credit candidate for Warner constituency, at a convention held Saturday night at Raymond.

Mr. Low, nominated as Social Credit candidate for Warner last year, was since named national leader of his party. The convention was called to re-affirm the nomination, in the light of the changed situation.

"I yielded to an overwhelming demand that I let my name stand," Mr. Low said. "I requested endorsement in the light of my national leadership."

The minister leaves for Grande Prairie Tuesday, and while in the north will address meetings in support of H. E. DeBolt, Social Credit candidate in Spirit River riding. Meetings will be held at Spirit River and Rycroft.

Veteran Navy Man Given Retirement

Charles E. Hughes, signal boatswain, R.N., who formerly resided at 7915 118 avenue, has been placed on the retired list, to date from May 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes and their daughter, Annette left Monday night for Golden, B.C., where they will live.

Mr. Hughes joined the Royal Navy on Feb. 9, 1903. He was promoted to signal boatswain Feb. 10, 1915. In 1926 he came to Canada and was employed as chief instructor for the R.C.N.V.R., stationed at Hamilton, and later at Winnipeg. From there he was transferred to officers' training college, Victoria.

He was living in Edmonton when called into active service in January, 1942.

Two sons are serving with the armed forces, Ernest with the R.C.A.F. overseas and John with the R.C.N. A daughter, Mrs. L. Hague resides in Edmonton, and another daughter Margaret will later go to Golden.

Library Unsuitable For Arts Museum

Survey of space at the public library was made Monday by officials of the Edmonton Museum of Arts and the Edmonton Library board, and it was agreed that it was not practicable to provide accommodation for the museum at the library building.

City Commissioner R. J. Gibb stated Tuesday other solutions to the Civic Block space problem are being considered, and it is expected that a decision on this matter will be reached within the next few days.

Space is needed at the Civic Block for extension of the health department, the civic relief department. At a recent meeting of the city council the commissioners were instructed to make a survey of available space to permit the enlarging of these departments.

Proposal Made Meet Returned Men on Trains

Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., chairman of the provincial government's soldier welfare commission is expected to propose to the government that a conducting officer be appointed to travel to Winnipeg to meet trains returning with large numbers of men from overseas. This action arose out of a meeting held in Calgary over the week-end when members of the commission met with representatives of the Canadian Legion and Canadian Army officers.

As a result of the meeting there may be considerable changes in present arrangements for the reception of men returning from the battlefronts.

The meeting agreed on one point. Soldiers arriving in Calgary late in the evening should not be sent out on the north train which leaves at midnight, because often less than an hour is available in which to arrange furloughs, give them their pay and transportation.

TO GET INFORMATION
Col. Brown will probably act in the capacity of conducting officer to meet the next large group of returning men, to gather information for his proposal to the government.

The conducting officer would get necessary data from the men themselves, and give them advice on what to do when they arrive in Calgary.

The commission also suggested train schedules be fixed so that trains arrive in the city in the morning when possible, instead of at night, which would mean the majority of the men would arrive in Edmonton on the night train.

Attending the meeting were Maj. A. H. Norrington, deputy assistant quartermaster-general; Capt. Fred Crumplehouse, district auxiliary services officer and Capt. Ralph B. Wilson, all from M.D. 13 headquarters; W. A. R. Reed and Harold E. Tanner, both of Edmonton, members of the commission; W. J. Williams, secretary of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion; J. Mundy, representing the Calgary branch of the Canadian Legion.

Navy League Tag Day Brings $1,833

A total of $1,833.53 was collected in last Saturday's Navy League Tag Day, according to figures released Tuesday by league officers. Twelve different organizations assisted in tagging on city streets, as follows: Edmonton chapters of the L.O.D.E.; Edmonton Sea Cadets; Edmonton Navy Mothers' Club; Women's Auxiliary to the Edmonton Fusiliers; Women's Auxiliary to the 9th Army Troops Company; Royal Canadian Engineers; Women's Auxiliary, 4th Casualty Clearing Station; Women's Auxiliary, 14th Army Tank Bn.; Lady Aberdeen League; Council of Jewish Women; Citizen's Volunteer Bureau; Students of Victoria and King Edward High schools; and Oliver and Parkdale schools; and South Edmonton Ladies' Committee, headed by Mrs. Cuthbertson and Mrs. Herlihy.

Grateful thanks of the Navy League were extended to all assisting in the work of the tag day.

Officers Survey Damage by Floods

Municipal officers conducting a survey of flood damage occasioned by recent floods of the Pembina and Paddle rivers have completed about one-half their work, it was stated by public welfare department officers here Tuesday.

Some weeks ago the department made arrangements to start the survey, which was to be conducted by officers of the municipality's affected. When it is completed, reports will be submitted to the government, and the matter in all probability will be discussed at Ottawa.

Damage to personal property, livestock, equipment and buildings is being covered by the survey.

Young Soldiers Start Training At Camp Sarcee

More than 900 army cadets from all sections of Alberta are at Sarcee camp preparatory to beginning an intensive 10 days of training at the annual summer camp.

With the arrival at camp Monday morning of cadets from five Calgary corps, as well as the Bashaw Cadet Corps, camp strength returns were completed showing the Lethbridge Collegiate Institute Corps, under command of Capt. George B. McKillop, E.D., an instructor of cadets for a quarter of a century, held top place with 80 boys on parade.

Edmonton, with cadets from seven corps and Calgary with five corps represented have large contingents in camp.

Coming farthest to attend the training period were members of the Grande Prairie Corps, under the command of Lt. K. Leslie. Forty-five boys came from the northern centre.

An intensive training schedule has been arranged for the next 10 days, including battle drill, artillery training with 25-pounders for cadets corps affiliated with artillery units and considerable shooting with service rifle for first class rifle shots.

Two bands, those of the Alberta Military Institute and Lethbridge Corps, are attending the camp.

CADET HEAD WILL VISIT

Col. C. M. G. Grier, E.D., director cadet services, Canadian army, who is retiring this autumn to return to his civilian duties, and Lt. Col. K. M. Holloway, O.B.E., who will succeed him will visit the cadet camp on Thursday and Friday, it was announced today.

Next Sunday promises to be a big day for cadets. In the morning church parades will be held at 9:30 a.m. while in the afternoon a track and field meet will be staged beginning at 2 p.m.

An efficient staff is on hand to take care of training. Camp commandant is Capt. G. H. Rison-Bennett, district cadet officer, while Capt. J. M. Kerr is adjutant. Capt. George B. McKillop, E.D., is assistant adjutant and quartermaster and QMSI George Tiliash is camp sergeant-major.

Five members of the instructional cadre of M.D. 13 assisted by 13 cadet instructors will have charge of training. Members of the cadre are QMSI Tiliash, QMSI J. Gordon, CSMI M. Minto, SMIA R. Bannard and Sgt. Instructor F. W. Little.

Capt. Rison-Bennett stated Tuesday was very pleased with attendance at camp. He pointed out that due to present labor shortage many of the youths who would normally attend the summer camp are now working.

Auto, $50 Taken In Garage Theft

Breaking into the Lane Robinson garage, 10223 106 street, late Monday, thieves took $50 from the safe and then helped themselves to an auto belonging to William Michaud of Dawson Creek, according to city police. Entry into the building was made by breaking off a piece of cardboard on the rear door of the garage.

According to A. Bokenfohr, manager of the garage, the theft occurred between 6 and 11:10 p.m. All was in order previous to that. The car had been left there for repairs on July 13. It is the second time within a week that the premises had been unlawfully entered, but on the first occasion nothing was taken.

The car was described as a 1942 sedan, a two-tone dark green and light grey, and bearing a British Columbia license plate, the number of which is not known.

Police are also checking the entries Sunday night of the premises of Gas and Oil Products, 116 street and 104 avenue. Nothing had been taken, it was stated after an examination. Entry had been made by a wash-room window.

House Is Entered: Articles Missing

Cigarettes, chocolate bars and $10 in currency were stolen from his home sometime Monday, Adam Kosakowich, 10848 92 street, reported to city police. Entry into the dwelling place had been by removing the screen from a front window and then raising the window-pane.

A check of the house disclosed that about six packages of cigarettes, five or six chocolate bars and the money had been taken. Juveniles were said to be suspected.

Company Is Sued In Supreme Court

Action was started in supreme court Tuesday by the Yellowknife Transportation Co., seeking $1,200 from the W. A. Bechtel Co., H. C. Price Co. and the W. E. Callahan Construction Co., trading under the name of Bechtel, Price, Callahan. The claim is for money owing on the purchase of supplies from the plaintiff company.

The statement of claim, which was filed by E. W. S. Kane, K.C., alleged that the United States contracting firm owed $500 balance on the purchase of a boat and propeller, and $700 on the purchase price of sleighs and a caboose.

City Airman Served 1,000 Hours On Long-Range Submarine Patrols Arrives Home

PO. J. R. "Jimmy" Ward, R.C.A.F., who arrived back in Edmonton early this week to spend a 30-day leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ward, 10535 80 avenue. He has been overseas for the last two and a half years, serving as a wireless air gunner aboard a Liberator bomber on coastal patrol.

845 Teachers Plan To Attend School

Eight hundred and forty-five teachers from all districts throughout the province registered Monday for the annual summer school course at the University of Alberta, A. E. Ottewill, registrar, announced Tuesday.

Total number of enrolments is expected to pass 1,000 mark. Lectures in all courses started Tuesday and will continue until Aug. 26. Dr. H. E. Smith is director of the school.

The soybean is an Asiatic herb.

With a tour of almost 1,000 hours on long range anti-submarine patrols to his credit, PO. J. R. "Jimmy" Ward, wireless air gunner, arrived back in the city from overseas early this week.

His crew is credited with two "probables," and he said "to get a 'kill' you practically have to bring back a survivor."

On the R.A.F. squadron of Liberator bombers there were representatives from all over the British Commonwealth, and one lone American. Jimmy was one of two Canadians on the squadron.

According to himself "it was a pretty routine tour and nothing very exciting happened."

He didn't see any of the German robot bombs because "we couldn't get leave to go down to London."

ON INSTRUCTION
After a thirty-day leave at home he will be posted to six months' instructional duty in Canada.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ward, 10535 80 avenue, and was educated at Edmonton where he attended Strathcona commercial school.

He enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in May, 1941, and trained at Winnipeg and Lethbridge, going overseas in January, 1943.

Tim Buck Plans Speak Here Twice

Tim Buck of Toronto, national leader of the Labor-Progressive party who will campaign in the Aug. 8 Alberta general election, will open his tour at Athabasca July 21, it was announced today. James A. Macpherson, Alberta leader of the party and candidate in the multiple-member Edmonton constituency, will accompany Mr. Buck.

Itinerary follows: July 22, Edmonton; July 24, Vermilion (afternoon); Vegreville (night); July 27, Wetaskiwin (night); July 29-30, Calgary; Aug. 2, Waskatenau (night); Aug. 3, Wainwright (night); Aug. 4, Edmonton (night); Aug. 6, Edmonton (night).

Red Cross Girls Aid in France

By MARGARET ECKER

WITH A CANADIAN GENERAL HOSPITAL IN BRITAIN, July 18.—(CP)—Girls of the Canadian Red Cross Corps went with the Canadian general hospitals when they crossed into France.

They wear the same khaki battle dress as the nursing sisters have adopted for active service, with berets.

Usually when the boys are brought in from the battlefield they have lost their kit so the Red Cross girls distribute battle bags containing cigarettes, shaving kit, soap, writing paper.

They set up libraries and look after the distribution of the books to the boys.

They play a young edition of Dorothy Dix and write letters for the men when the hospital padre isn't available.

When anxious queries come back from a soldier's wife or mother they write back describing his condition. If a man is worried about his family, about a sick wife in hospital or a younger brother in another service, or a mother who hasn't written for some time, the Red Cross girls communicate with their London headquarters and the news is obtained as soon as telegraph and cable wires can carry it.

Miss Mason Is Honored

Many social functions have been given in honor of Miss Mary Barbara Mason, whose marriage to Donald LaZerte takes place Saturday.

Sunday morning, Miss Marjorie Carter had a breakfast party at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Carter, Connaught Drive. There were 12 guests present, Mrs. J. E. Bicknell, Miss Mason's sister, Miss Gertrude Rowan and Miss Norma Coburn were co-hostesses. Sunday afternoon, when they entertained at tea at the former's home. The tea table was set with a damask lace cloth, centered with a crystal bowl of margolids. Tall white tapers flanked the centerpiece. Assisting in serving were Miss Sylvia Rowan and Miss Joan Sherwin.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Gosnell entertained at their home at a buffet supper to 12 guests. Supper was served on individual tables.

Miss Bernice McBeth was hostess Monday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McBeth, Garneau, when she entertained 20 guests at a pantry shower. The tea table was set in ecru lace centered with daisies, and tall white tapers in crystal holders. Mrs. A. B. Mason presided at the tea table and Miss Jean Kelso and Miss Francis Clark, assisted the hostess in serving.

The West Texas oil fields produced 431,200 barrels during May, 1944.

MARK GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. William Derbyshire, of Sydney, N.S., who are visiting in the Canadian Rockies and are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lawther in Jasper, marked their golden wedding anniversary in the mountain resort on July 13. The couple were married in Leigh, Lancashire, Eng., in 1894. Mr. Derbyshire served in the Great War with the 85th Battalion Nova Scotia Highlanders. A musical evening was enjoyed with Mr. Derbyshire playing jigs, and reels, accompanied by his daughter. Violin solos were given by A. H. Elliott, accompanied by Mrs. Elliott at the piano. Violin trios were played by S. G. Hemmond, A. H. Elliott and Mr. Derbyshire. Miss Ruth Tutten of Melville, Sask., played piano selections. The hostess gave vocal solos. Mr. and Mrs. Derbyshire cut their wedding cake, and serving the guests were Dr. and Mrs. Hector McFadyen, of Edmonton; Mrs. Nelson Stewart, and Hector McFadyen, Sr., of Jasper.

City Nurse, Frances Ferguson Arrives at Hospital in France

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS ON THE CAEN FRONT, July 18.—(CP)—Less than seven miles from the front line, Canadian nursing sisters of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps are working under canvas in Canadian casualty clearing stations, caring for Canadian wounded from the Caen sector.

In one C.C.S. up here near the front are stationed eight sisters, who are the first Canadian sisters to land in France during this war. Their unit came ashore July 13, was set up in an open field at 1 a.m. next day and began to receive casualties shortly afterwards.

For the last three days this C.C.S. has been working hard handling mortar and shellfire casualties and soldiers wounded in skirmishes and patrols along the Orne river.

The matron of this C.C.S. is Marian Inches of Peterborough, Ont. Among the sisters is Pauline McNeer, Govan, Sask.

WEAR BATTLE DRESS
The sisters wear the battle dress of the Auxiliary Territorial Service, Britain's Women's Army, and it working in the wards wear battle dress trousers with leather anklets, khaki shirts and ties. There are no natty blue uniforms and white starched veils here. But these nurses look just as neat in their khaki as they did in their blue uniforms in England. They have created trim turbans for their heads out of khaki handkerchiefs.

In addition to these sisters, others too, are working in other clearing stations situated just as far forward. But this unit was the first to get established in France and begin to take casualties.

A number of other sisters also have arrived and are staying temporarily at a British hospital. They include Frances Ferguson, Edmonton.

turned at the week-end after a two weeks holiday in Banff.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made Monday by Mr. and Mrs. Eric E. Boon, of Edmonton, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Bernice Boon, R.N., to Donald Stewart McArthur, son of Mrs. E. S. McArthur, of Edmonton, and the late Mr. McArthur. The bride-elect has been a stewardess with C. P. Airlines for the past year and a half. She is a graduate of the Miericordia hospital. Mr. McArthur, a graduate in chemical engineering of the University of Alberta, recently returned from Trinidad where for the past two years he has been employed with Trinidad Lease Oil company. Their marriage will take place at Holy Trinity church the end of July.

Mrs. Lottie Allen announces the engagement of her only daughter, Marian Audrey to Telegrapher Harford M. Watson, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Watson, Edmonton. The wedding will take place at Central United church on July 29 at 7:30 p.m.

W. H. Foster has returned from Calgary where he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pearson to attend the stampede.

L. T. J. V. KNOLL, R.C.A., and his brother, AC J. L. Knoll, R.C.A.F., who have been visiting their mother, Mrs. J. J. Knoll, have left to return to their respective stations at Camp Borden, Ont., and Vulcan.

Members of the Junior choir of Norwood United church entertained their mothers and friends at a social evening recently in the church parlor. Under the direction of their leader, Miss Myrtle Coote, the choir was heard in several choruses and ensemble groups. Members also contributed piano and vocal solos, piano duets and reading to an enjoyable program. At the close of the entertainment, refreshments were served by members of the executive. The president Miss Joan Wilson was in charge of the program. Mrs. Thornton Grose and Miss Laobel Burton, accompanists for the choir, assisted. With the closing of the regular Sunday school sessions for the summer months, the choir has adjourned, and will resume their practices in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Young returned to the city recently after visiting in Brandon and Winnipeg. Mrs. Young attended a wartime conference of the Canadian Business and Professional Women's Clubs in Winnipeg.

Martha Logan

This is the time of year to purchase poultry, especially the heavier fowl. And this is the time of year, too, when your family will cheer for chicken salad. So get yourself a plump six-pound bird, ask for Swift's 'Golden West' fowl, and simmer it—cut up—in salted water, till it is tender. Cool the chicken in the broth, then remove it, wrap in waxed paper and place in refrigerator. Keep the broth for stock. Then, when you want to serve the family or visitors a meal that will have

CHICKEN SALAD

Expect R.C.A.F. To Play Big Role In Pacific War

OTTAWA, July 18.—(CP)—It was reliably learned here yesterday that Air Minister Power is preparing an announcement which will disclose a new role for the Canadian air force in the Pacific theatre.

The announcement may disclose that an air mission already has been sent to Australia for the purpose of making preparations for the establishment of Canadian squadrons in that area and also possibly to make arrangements for a flow of trainees from the Commonwealth air training plan to the Pacific.

AMPLE AIRCROW

It is understood there is a saturation of aircraft at British bases and the Allied high command now feels that at least part of the output of the big plan can be turned over to the Pacific war.

These reports, coming at the same time Prime Minister Curtin of Australia said large and powerful forces would become available this year in the war against Japan, recalled that the role of the three Canadian forces in the Pacific was said to have been discussed when Mr. Curtin conferred here recently with Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Canada already has sent more than a score of officers to Australia, New Zealand and American forces in the southwest Pacific for training in jungle and amphibious warfare and it was assumed they were the advance guard of an important force.

Another factor is the establishment of important Royal Navy bases on the Canadian Pacific coast and it is assumed that the Canadian Navy will take some part at least in the convoy of supplies on Pacific routes just as it is doing on the Atlantic.

I. B. Howatt, K.C., Company Manager

In a news story released on Saturday it was stated that Cyril Perry was manager of Ram River Oils. It should have been stated that Mr. Perry is manager of Ram River Agencies with offices at Edmonton and Windsor, Ont., and that the general manager of Ram River Oils is I. B. Howatt, K.C., who also occupies the position of president.

Observed 87th Birthday Here

Walter Cahill marked his 87th birthday Friday at a family gathering in the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. J. O'Callaghan, 10133 115 street, at which more than 20 relatives and friends were present. He has been a resident of Edmonton for more than 20 years and was one of the first men to engage in the fox-raising industry in Canada.

Born in Kildare, P.E.I., Mr. Cahill came with his family to the city in 1920. Of his seven daughters, six are residing here. They are: Mrs. D. M. O'Brien, Mrs. C. Burchell, Mrs. O'Callaghan, Irene, Anne and Lillian. Another daughter, Mrs. George Lynch, lives in Calgary. His wife died in 1929.

200 Are Signed To Aid Election

Approximately 200 persons have signed up as deputy returning officers and poll clerks for duty in the Aug. 8 election, according to H. H. Crawford, city returning officer. About 400 more are needed. Applicants are being signed on as fast as they come in to election headquarters, 9916 Jasper avenue, and application must be made in person.

Three hundred persons will be needed as deputy returning officers, and a further 300 as poll clerks. Enumeration of city voters is going ahead satisfactorily. Mr. Crawford said, and is expected to be finished this week.

Big U.S. Battleships Hurl Shells at Guam

PEARL HARBOR, July 18.—(AP)—The biggest battleships of Admiral Raymond A. Spruance's Marianas invasion fleet have added their guns to the attack on Guam—a sustained operation extended through 13 days—Pacific fleet headquarters disclosed last night.

Rebuilt Refinery Ready by Sept. 1

The rebuilt refinery at the Abasand Oils, Ltd. plant at McMurray will be completed and in operation by Sept. 1, G. W. Webster, vice-president and general manager of the company, stated Tuesday. Mr. Webster is also president of Bear Explorations, Ltd.

He said that the separation plant at McMurray was now turning out 100 barrels daily, and the anticipated capacity of the refinery would be 500 barrels daily.

Operations at the Abasand plant, he added, are designed to evolve a good process for handling the tar sands.

Diamond drilling on the Bear Exploration Co.'s eight holdings in the Yellowknife will start immediately, Mr. Webster stated. He left for Yellowknife Tuesday accompanied by Dr. W. F. James, Toronto, consulting engineer, and J. G. McCrea, manager of the Sisco Mines, Quebec.

One-Man Torpedo New Nazi Weapon

LONDON, July 18.—(CP)—The German's newest "secret weapon" is a one-man torpedo, according to International Information Bureau, German agency. The agency said in a broadcast that they are being used off the mouth of the Orne river. Presumably the torpedo is similar to the British "human" torpedo—operated by two men.

McCoy Health Service

In practically all cases, of gall bladder trouble, including gallstones, the patient has permitted his gall bladder to become sluggish through lack of use or lack of exercise. A patient may be ailing for years, without ever feeling any specific symptoms, and yet he states that he doesn't feel quite right. He may complain of flatulence, indigestion, discomfort, or feeling after meals, heartburn, or other digestive disturbances. He may at times have attacks of colic, or occasionally he might become jaundiced. He may complain of a heavy feeling in the upper right hand side, attended by soreness and tenderness. This tenderness will be particularly evident after a long automobile ride, which has had a jolting effect, sufficient to stir up the gall bladder.

Of course all of these symptoms may not be found in the same patient. But some of them are quite often found in those suffering from gall bladder disease.

The gall bladder itself is a small pear-shaped sac, attached to the under surface of the lobe of the liver. It measures about 4 inches in length and is about one inch in diameter, and it is capable of considerable distention, under certain abnormal circumstances. Normally it holds about 2 large tablespoons full and it is a storage reservoir from which bile is fed into the intestines as necessary for aiding digestion.

Inflammation of the gall bladder is quite a common disease and, in an acute attack the patient complains of chills and fever and headache and considerable weakness. The gall bladder may become swollen and enlarged and the area is sore or tender on pressure. The duct may share in this catarrhal inflammation and in that case they often close off in a manner so as to prevent the bile from escaping. This effect is similar to the catarrhal stoppage of the nose during an attack of cold in the nose.

The effect of this stopping up of the bile duct so that the bile is unable to escape is that the bile backs up into the liver and is distributed in the blood, causing jaundice, with the typical yellow skin and yellowing of the whites of the eyes. As a rule this catarrhal inflammation will clear up in a few days, but in the meantime the patient should go to bed and use hot applications over the liver and gall bladder regions and should remain on a liquid diet. The best liquid diet in this case is a fruit juice diet and it should be supplemented by drinking plenty of water.

Quite often a chronically inflamed gall bladder develops gallstones, and these stones are either partly or entirely formed from the constituents of bile. The presence of gallstones is often unrecognized until one or more stones attempts to engage themselves in the bile passage. In such a case the pain is intense and is known as biliary colic.

Some persons have a tendency to the formation of various kinds of stones. Their tendency is to build concretions of the form of kidney or bladder stones, or gall stones, when the blood becomes saturated with toxic material in the blood and the secretions can no longer maintain a state of solution. In some cases the gall bladder is found to contain hundreds of stones of various shapes and sizes and in others one or more large stones form and after much treatment for digestive disturbances of various kinds, an X-ray after a special dye test, may disclose the true condition.

Gall bladder and gall stones are very rarely found in an athlete, or in a person who receives a sufficient amount of exercise.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Officer Deplores Supervision Lack

Lack of supervision or no supervision at all, over juvenile crime repeaters, created "terrible conditions in this province," Detective Inspector H. B. Petheram, city police department, stated Tuesday.

"There is no place to put juvenile delinquents," he said. "They are being dumped in one place and then another."

He stated that police officers have to put many hours checking on the movements of many juvenile law-breakers.

"Right now we are looking for some youths who were brought here from Calgary, placed under guardianship and then allowed to roam about the streets."

"These boys were among four—three Calgary youths and one Edmonton—who stole an auto in this city and drove to Calgary. There they abandoned the first car and took another. Picked up by officers, they were returned to Edmonton, and, almost immediately, were given back their freedom," he said.

The boys have been "at large" over Sunday and Monday nights, said the officer, who added his belief that the same youths were responsible for further auto thefts, including that stolen from the Fane Robinson garage Monday night.

He deplored the fact that his men were forced to investigate reports of alleged juvenile crime when other work had to be put off.

Lord Astor's Estate Worth $46,173,690

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP)—Almost a quarter of a century after his death, the estate of Lord Astor was valued yesterday in an estate appraisal at $46,173,690 gross, against which state transfer taxes of $1,775,155 have been levied. Filing of the appraisal concludes more than 20 years of court litigation. Bulk of the estate was in real property which was left to his sons, Waldorf Astor and John Jacob Astor.

Berlin Says French Bound by Armistice

NEW YORK, July 18.—(AP)—General Eisenhower's warning to Germany that French Partisans were considered part of the Allied armies in France, brought a retort from Berlin yesterday that all French were bound by the French-German armistice, and that those who failed to abide by its terms would be dealt with accordingly. Gen. de Gaulle issued instructions yesterday in an order broadcast from Algiers that all officers and non-commissioned officers of the former French army "join the French forces of the interior at once" and hold themselves in readiness for further orders.

John Lenglet, Western Canada C.I.O. organizer, said Monday a union of the United Steel Workers of America was organized at Standard Iron Works Ltd. Edmonton plant. He said 70 per cent of the plant employees "signed up" at an organization meeting. Standard Iron Works Ltd. is a branch of the Dominion Bridge Company of Canada.

New Industries Seen For Prairies

SASKATOON, July 18.—(CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan, told a Canadian Club meeting here last night that Saskatchewan and the west must develop a diversified economy with secondary industries suited to the prairies.

"After the war we will have the scientific potentialities of developing tremendous industries indigenous to the prairies. We cannot afford to be too far behind."

There were possibilities for the production of grain, alcohol, glycol, anti-freeze, syrup, synthetic rubber, and plastics from wheat, he said. The United States was using Canadian wheat to develop its industries. Saskatchewan could use that same wheat to develop her industries.

Mr. Douglas said constitutional changes were necessary because the British North America Act had been drawn up in a horse and buggy age.

"There must be a reallocation of responsibility for social services so that either the provincial or the federal government has both the responsibility and the money."

It is not a good principle for one government to raise money and another to spend it, he said.

Father of City Resident Passes While at Coast

VANCOUVER, July 18.—(CP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for John H. Selkirk, 74, of Montreal, president of the Montreal Envelope Co., who died Sunday while visiting friends in Vancouver. Born in Manchester, England, Mr. Selkirk was formerly in the real estate business in Vancouver. Besides his widow he is survived by three children, Mrs. C. W. Wilson of Edmonton; Harry H. Selkirk of Toronto; Mrs. W. S. Strachan of Vancouver.

Little blue herons are not little; they measure two feet in length.

THANK YOU !
MR. AND MRS. CANADA
—for Helping to Make Possible the Saving of 568,000,000 gallons of Fighting Gasoline and Fuel Oil
- BUT WE STILL NEED YOUR HELP

AS partners in an effective wartime program of gasoline and fuel oil conservation, the people of Canada may feel both satisfaction and pride. By their adoption of voluntary conservation in 1941 and by their subsequent acceptance of gasoline rationing and fuel oil control, they have been instrumental in the saving of more than 568 million gallons of these vital war commodities!

This very considerable reduction of gas and oil consumption in Canada has helped the United Nations war effort in two ways. It has meant more gasoline for actual fighting purposes—and it has released many ocean-going oil tankers for service to the battle zones. 203 long and perilous tanker trips would have been needed to ship that 568 million gallons of gasoline and oil to our shores.

However, in spite of all we Canadians have done to save gas and fuel oil—there is no occasion for complacency or relaxation. The war, today, is making greater and greater demands upon the crude oil and transportation facilities of this hemisphere. Stocks in Canada are far below normal.

As recently as June 20, 1944, the Minister of Munitions and Supply made the following statements: "Our position in the matter of petroleum fuels is not improving, and this in spite of the best efforts we have been able to make toward conservation. . . . This is not a time for other than the most essential driving. . . . Let me repeat: Every barrel of petroleum products we can do without means that much more for the theatres of war and the transportation to get the material there."

"Careful planning has provided gasoline available to the public in quantities sufficient to honour all coupons which have been issued." Every measure has been taken to prevent gasoline misuse. But we are not yet out of the woods. The conservation of gasoline and fuel oil is still a critical matter. To use these products needlessly, wastefully, frivolously, is to rob our fighting men, to risk prolongation of the war, to gamble with our chances of speedy victory.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear beloved son and brother Daniel Doerly who passed away at Cadomin, Alta., on July 18, 1942.

A precious one we have lost, a voice we miss, a place is vacant in our home that never can be filled. On, dearest one, how we miss you! And as dawn's another year, In our lonely hours of thinking, Thoughts of you are ever near. Oh, how long and sad the day Since from earth you passed away! We miss your sweet and smiling face, We miss you everywhere. Forgotten to the world by some, But dear to our memory you always will be.

—Ever remembered by Father, Mother, Brothers and Sister.

72 Wheat Shipment Embargo Lifted
KANSAS CITY, July 18.—(AP)—The limited embargo on wheat shipments at the Kansas City terminal was lifted following a meeting of the board of trade permit committee. Gunnard A. Johnson, chairman of the committee, said the situation here generally was good, with the number of cars of wheat held on track showing a substantial drop from last week.

Gold Mining Stocks Boom Despite War
By ALEX PRINGLE
TORONTO, July 18.—(CP)—The current scramble for shares of the gold mining and development companies, unequalled in the last seven years or longer, has developed in the face of an unprecedented labor shortage and the heaviest taxation burden the industry has ever carried.

While there are obvious bearish factors, the bullish influences are much less apparent and brokers are far from agreement as to the cause of the advance, apart from the feeling that the war is hastening towards an end and that the labor problem then will quickly evaporate.

Buying of the gold stocks began to hit a livelier pace immediately following the invasion of Normandy June 6. Stocks were not overhauling the market in any considerable quantity and buyers were obliged to raise bids.

PRICES ADVANCE
In the five weeks between June 5 and July 10 the exchange index of gold stock prices advanced 13.55 to 114.27, the highest level since February, 1940.

The strong buying spurge that developed soon after the Allied invasion of the continent has been attributed in some quarters to a report that the United States government was planning another advance in the price of gold. Also some buyers of stocks have convinced themselves that the proposed international fund to foster trade in the post-war years would establish the permanency of gold as a monetary base and thereby increase the demand for gold.

The unprecedented quantity of money in circulation is mentioned as another stimulant to stock market action and other authorities call attention to the signs indicating a slow movement towards definite inflation, thus encouraging the buying of stocks as a hedge.

SENSATIONAL REPORTS
A local factor supporting the gold share boom has undoubtedly been the somewhat sensational reports coming out of the Yellowknife fields in recent months about ore veins 50 feet wide and running a half-mile or more to the ton. New companies acquiring holdings in that area have been organized in dozens in recent weeks and they have been able to finance quite easily on public buying of their shares.

The advance of the shares of Giant Yellowknife from around 35 cents to $10.75 within about a year provides first class advertising for the companies that came along behind.

C.P.R. President Is Made Chief Of Indian Tribe
REGINA, July 18.—(Chief) of the nearly 80,000 employees of the Canadian Pacific Railway throughout the world, D. C. Coleman, chairman and president of the C.P.R., became chief of the Piapot tribe of the Qu'Appelle Indian agency at a colorful ceremony marking the opening day of Regina's 62nd annual provincial exhibition.

Coming back to the west to officially open Regina's exhibition, Mr. Coleman was greeted by more than 100 members of the tribe, men, women and children, the braves decked out in full feathered headdresses and wearing war paint.

Chief Abel Watlach conferred on the railway executive the title of Chief of the Iron Rail, reading from a buckskin scroll an address of welcome in which he said: "For many years the Indians of the Piapot band of Crees have regarded with respect and astonishment the mighty and patriotic achievements of the great corporation of which you are the gitche ogemow—great chief."

Heavy Fire Loss In Ontario Town
HARRISTON, Ont., July 18.—(CP)—Fire, reported to be one of the worst in the history of this town 65 miles northeast of London, early today destroyed Walker's flour mill and endangered the town hall, the business section and at least five houses before being brought under control. The mill and its connecting sheds were destroyed. No estimate of damage was available immediately. Cause of the fire was not known.

Fire on Soldiers
BRISTOL, England, July 18.—(CP)—Military police opened fire here last night, quelling a fight among soldiers, three of whom were taken to hospital with minor head injuries. Some American soldiers were involved in the fighting. The Daily Mail said no British were in the fracas.

C.P. Earnings Up
MONTREAL, July 18.—(CP)—Increase of $119,000 or 2 per cent was reported by Canadian Pacific Railway company yesterday in earnings for the week ended July 14 of $6,042,000, compared with receipts of $5,923,000 in the like period in 1943.
